Assembly Vote On Amendment Blocks Bill for Wolf Reservoir

Catlin Proposes Change in Location of Dam

SITE IS LIMITED

Survival of Original Proposal Believed Doubtful

Madison — The state assembly this noon in effect killed the plan for a Wolf river reservoir at Lily to control the flow in Wolf and Fox rivers by adopting an amendment by Assemblyman Mark Catlin, Appleton, which restricts location of the proposed dam to a site on the Wolf below the Indian reservation.

Catlin's amendment will limit the reservoir to the Leeman site which has been declared to be the only feasible location below the reservation. The vote was 48 to 39. Although a reconsideration motion is pending, it was considered doubtful that the original plan will survive.

The promoters of the project including the Wolf River Reservoir company and Fox river valley industrialists have opposed the Leeman site as impractical because of the expense it would involve. The original Lily site in Langlade county includes cheap cutover land already owned or controlled by the company, while at Leeman more expensive farm land will have to be purchased.

Charles Seaborn of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna, recently told a legislative committee that a reservoir at Leeman would cost more than the potential benefits warrant.

Catlin said that the Leeman site is a better one because at that point 4.5 of the flow of the Wolf river is available, because it is only 35 miles from the area to be benefited—the lower Fox river—and because it would not endanger the natural beauties of the Wolf farther upstream.

The Catlin amendment also will prohibit the damming of any of the Wolf tributaries as the original bill would have permitted the company to do. Assemblyman Peterson of Berlin, Republican floor leader, supported the original bill and fought Catlin's amendment. He showed samples of Fox river water to the jury but Mayor Nelson of Kaukauna, who he said, proved that some action is necessary to clean up the Fox river. He said that fur farmers and trappers in his own district have complained of the floods which damaged their business in the Lake Poygan area which is affected by the Wolf and that they are supporting the reservoir plan.

Assemblyman Schlachab of LaCrosse supported Catlin in denying that the reservoir would affect the Wolf river flood control. Assemblyman Gantner of Kaukauna conceded that a dam would have to be built on the Embarras river to control floods at New London. Schlachab, who is a Republican, called the project "power and water stealing scheme." Biemiller of Milwaukee Progressive floor leader, quoted union representatives as saying that it is a "power steal." Gantner replied that Fox river valley unions are supporting the reservoir.

Pope Pius Pleads for Peace; Roosevelt Asks Italy's King To Try to End Present Crisis

Castel Gandolfo — Pope Pius XII tonight broadcast a new appeal for peace, reminding governments and peoples that it was not yet too late for negotiations to avert war.

"Let men return to mutual understanding, let them begin their negotiations anew," the pope implored. He declared that "empires which are not built on justice are not blessed by God."

"Today when the outbreak of the scourge of war seems more imminent," the pope said, "we direct a new and more heartfelt appeal to men of power and their peoples to avert the catastrophe."

He urged that the "voice of reason" be heeded rather than the "voice of passion."

"Nothing is lost through peace," all is lost through war," Pope Pius spoke in Italian from his summer palace in the Alban hills.

His voice was earnest and contained a note of urgency throughout the eight-minute speech.

Translations in English, French, German and Polish were broadcast by the Vatican radio station immediately after the pope had finished speaking.

Seek Arsonist in Series of Fires; Order Air Patrol

Portland Convinced Industrial Blazes are Purposely Set

Portland, Ore. — An hourly air patrol of the waterfront and industrial districts was organized today in an attempt to apprehend an arsonist blamed for nearly $5,000,000 in fire losses throughout the Pacific northwest.

Fire Chief Edward Boatright, claiming "convincing evidence" of a "concentrated" incendiary here, said he expected to have 25 amateur and commercial fliers "practicing night flying over dangerous sectors—primarily along the Willamette river."

The incendiary, striking invariably at industrial plants, has caused havoc in Vancouver, Centralia, Kent, Seattle, Tacoma and Wenatchee, Wash., Boatright said.

Portland, Ore., Boatright believed Portland was his next goal because of peculiar methods used in attempted waterfront fires here.

"These fires know the city like a book," Boatright said. "They know the location of every incinerator. Since burning permits aren't issued in dry weather, any blaze they see is important to us."

Smoke from forest fires is the big problem. City lights are invisible from 2,000 feet.

Special guards have been stationed at waterfront buildings and industrialists have hired extra watchmen.

Government Lawyers Deny Charges Made by Accused Publisher

Chicago — Government attorneys took issue today with M. L. Annenberg's statement that to a great extent witnesses hostile to him were questioned by the special grand jury which indicted him and three others yesterday, charging conspiracy to bribe a witness.

A joint statement by James V. Hays, George S. Robinson and Sam E. Neel, special assistants to the attorney general who directed the grand jury inquiry, said:

"With particular reference to the allegations of Mr. Annenberg that for the most part witnesses from his organization who could have presented the true facts were dismissed without being presented to the grand jury after being called to Chicago, counsel for the government wish to point out for the purpose of accuracy that over 30 percent of the witnesses who testified before the grand jury are employees of the Annenberg organization."

Assembly Kills Measures to Revamp Public Service Body And to Create Appeals Board

Madison — The assembly today killed administration bills to reorganize the public service commission and create a board of review to hear appeals from the decisions of four state departments.

A public service bill, which would have abolished the present three-man commission and substituted a $10,000 a year director to be appointed by the governor, was defeated 53 to 38.

It had been passed by the senate but lost on its first test in the house when Progressive Leader Paul Alfonsi of Pence moved non-concurrence.

The board of review bill, a companion measure which was aimed at separate administration and quasi-judicial functions now exercised by major departments was killed 51 to 39 on motion of Assemblyman Andrew Biemiller (R) Milwaukee. It also had been approved by the senate.

Sixteen Republicans, including Assembly Speaker Vernon Thompson, of Richland Center, joined with eight Democrats and the Progressive bloc to discard the public service commission bill and a similar lineup prevailed on the board of review measure.

The bills were sponsored by Senator Kenneth S. White (R) River Falls, as part of the administration's reorganization program which has met with only partial success.

House members apparently had turned up their minds on these two measures for they were shelved with virtually no debate.

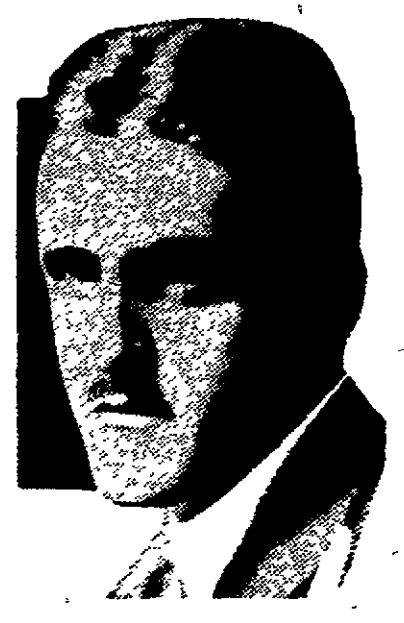

The board of review would have been a full time, three man body to hear appeals from orders of the public service, agriculture, securities and insurance departments.

Proponents claimed at committee hearings that the present system permits state commissions to act as judge, jury and prosecutor in state regulatory cases and that a separate agency should be created.

The opposition contended the review board was unnecessary because state orders still would have to be appealed to circuit court in case of a contest.

Governor Heil would have appointed the public service director and members of the board.

Germany Ready to Invade Poland; Chamberlain Asks For Emergency Powers

PLAYWRIGHT DIES

New York — The theater world mourned today the death of Sydney Howard, 48, one of the nation's foremost playwrights and film screenwriters, who was crushed to death by a tractor on his 700-acre summer estate near Tyringham, Mass., yesterday.

Scores Diplomats For Meddling in Domestic Affairs

Washington — Chairman Dies (D-Texas) asked counsel for the house committee on un-American affairs today to determine whether this country has recourse against countries whose diplomats "meddle in domestic affairs."

Dies made it plain that this action was the result of testimony by Henry D. Allen of Los Angeles who said two days ago he visited the German and Italian embassies on a trip to Washington in 1938.

Allen described himself as a west coast leader of activities against "Jewish communism."

"It occurs to me it's an intolerable situation," Dies said in the open committee session, "when the diplomatic representatives of foreign powers seek to divide our people into hostile camps."

"If American representatives in Germany or Italy joined a movement contrary to Nazi or fascist ideals it would cause an international crisis, probably threats of war."

"I think it's a violation of the spirit if not the letter of our treaties with these countries."

House investigators searched today for William Dudley Pelley, Silver Shirt leader, cited by Dies as attempting to sabotage the work of the committee.

Disclosure by a committee source that a subpoena has been issued for the Asheville, N. C., publisher-lecturer, came shortly after Dies declared the Silver Shirt organization had attempted to place an undercover agent on the committee's staff.

Resident of Eagle Is Killed in Accident

Edgerton, Wis. — John Schroeder, 23, of Eagle, was fatally injured today when an automobile driven by his brother, Lawrence, 21, went off the road at a Highway 106 curve between here and Ft. Atkinson.

John died 90 minutes later in a hospital here. Lawrence and two other youths suffered minor injuries.

Debate Resumed On Tax Measure

Upper House Expected to Reconsider Tuesday's Action

Madison — The senate decided today to hold an afternoon session to resume action on the administration's tax program, with indications it would reconsider Tuesday's conversion of the revenue measure into a relief and old age assistance bill.

Motions to reverse the reduction of the coalition's $14,000,000 income surtax plan to a $10,200,000 pension appropriation and increase of the state's share of local relief costs to 30 per cent have already been entered.

A move was reported underway to seek an agreement to approve the tax bill as it was passed by the assembly—carrying a cigarette tax, increased liquor levies, coin machine licenses, and re-enactment of old imposts—in an effort to provide the general fund with at least $16,000,000 to meet general expenses.

The present $16,200,000 bill specifies that in addition to the pension earmarking the other $6,000,000 of cigarette monies be pledged for state payment of relief shares to counties.

Bank of England Hikes Its Rediscount Rate

London — The Bank of England's rediscount rate was raised from 2 to 4 per cent today amidst growing European tension.

Prime Minister Sees 'Imminent Peril Of War'

BLAMES HITLER

'Still Hope Reason and Sanity Will Find Way Out'

London — Prime Minister Chamberlain declared in the house of commons today that Adolf Hitler had demanded a free hand for Germany in eastern Europe and had told Britain that any country which interfered was to blame for an ensuing war.

"God knows I have done all that is possible in efforts for peace," said the prime minister after he had declared Britain's obligations to Poland "remain unaffected" by what he called an imminent peril of war.

Speaking against the background of a rapidly arming Europe, the prime minister asked parliament to enact an emergency powers bill, giving the government virtually dictatorial authority to deal with any emergency.

Cheers from all sides of the house at the close of his 33-minute speech indicated quick acceptance of his demand.

"As we think, so shall we act unitedly," Chamberlain said solemnly and the house rose and cheered.

Reply To Message

The prime minister said Hitler's claim to a free hand in eastern Europe without interference came as a reply to a message delivered to the German chancellor yesterday through the British ambassador in Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson.

This message, Chamberlain said, restated Britain's own position.

"The German chancellor's reply includes what amounts to a restatement of the German thesis that eastern Europe is a sphere in which Germany ought to have a free hand," said the prime minister.

He went on to say that "we still hope reason and sanity will find a way out." But he said "the issue of peace or war does not rest with us."

"If all efforts to find a peaceful solution—and God knows I have done my best—fail and we find ourselves forced to embark upon a struggle bound to be fraught with suffering and misery for all mankind and the end of which no man can turn to page 8 col. 5

Offers Bill Providing Funds for Vets' Groups

Madison — Assemblyman Arthur Balzer (D) West Allis, today introduced a bill to appropriate $60,000 to the Disabled American Veterans and American Legion convention corporations directly from the state general fund.

The measure was designed to remedy legal defects of two previous bills which authorized the state emergency board to underwrite the D. A. V. convention at Green Bay next year for $10,000 and allot $50,000 to bring the American Legion convention to Milwaukee in 1941.

Favor 6-Month Limit To Pass Legislation

Madison — With the present legislative session now in its eighth month, four assemblymen today proposed a constitutional amendment which would require future legislatures to transact their business in not less than six months.

Ambassador Kennedy Advises All American Tourists in England to Go Home at Once

Paris — The United States embassy today formally advised all American citizens to arrange to leave France "in view of the situation prevailing in Europe."

London — United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy today issued a statement advising all American tourists in the British Isles to sail for home at once.

American officials estimated there were now between 3,000 and 4,000 American tourists in England, Scotland and Wales.

The ambassador talked to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain this morning and went to the air ministry to see Sir Kingsley Wood, the air minister, at noon. He issued the statement after returning from the air ministry and then went to the house of commons for the emergency session.

The text of Kennedy's statement: "The international situation has reached the point which makes it advisable for American travelers to leave England."

LATEST EUROPEAN BULLETINS

London — Communications with Warsaw and other Polish cities by telephone and telegraph was interrupted tonight and the post office department, which has charge of these utilities in Britain, said it could not say when communications could be resumed.

Berlin — The official German news bureau, DNB, in a special dispatch from Danzig asserted tonight that the free city had been encircled by a mixed Polish division in the south and west, and that the danger of an immediate coup d'etat was very great. The DNB dispatch said:

London — King George was generally believed to have taken far-reaching steps today by signing orders in council to bolster Great Britain's preparedness. Two acts of parliament this spring—the military conscription bill and the ministry of supply bill—contained clauses whereby hundreds of thousands of men may be called up for military service and war powers exerted over industry simply by orders in council.

Oslo, Norway — Britain's powerful navy, engaged in broad maneuvers the last three weeks, was reported today to have flung a strong barrier across the Skagerrak, the elbow-shaped channel between Norway and Denmark that commands the entrance to the Baltic Sea. This would give Britain virtual control of the Baltic.

Salt Lake City — Senator Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) said today his Washington office had telegraphed him President Roosevelt was preparing to call a special session of congress to consider neutrality legislation.

London — Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax in a worldwide broadcast tonight said he earnestly prayed that the appeals of King Leopold, President Roosevelt and Pope Pius for peace might "find a response in the hearts of men."

Berlin — Reichsfuehrer Hitler unexpectedly arrived at Berlin's Tempelhof airport at 5:56 p. m. (10:56 a. m. C.S.T.) today from his mountain retreat near Berchtesgaden. The fuhrer was greeted by the Italian ambassador, Bernardo Attolico, who chatted with him a few minutes.

Paris — Premier Edouard Daladier announced tonight he would make a radio broadcast to the nation tomorrow night.

Schafer Replies to Workers' Alliance Threat of Picketing

Washington — Representative Schafer (R-Wis.) said today that if Workers' Alliance officials carry out their threat to stage a demonstration at his Milwaukee, Wis., home Saturday, they will be picketing one of his friends and "not the real culprit at all."

Schafer said he had rented his house to a friend when congress reconvened last January.

He planned to leave Washington by automobile today with his family and said he doubted whether he would reach Milwaukee before next Monday. He had not decided where to stop in Milwaukee.

The congressman said the Workers' Alliance had announced plans to picket homes of Wisconsin's Republican members in congress who voted for the works projects administration appropriation bill eliminating the prevailing wage scale and requiring 30-day layoffs.

"I'm not any Charlie McCarthy for David Lasser, head of the Workers' Alliance," Schafer said. "According to him we're reactionaries responsible for changes in WPA rules which is remarkable since WPA Administrator Harrington requested the changes, and the house voted 373 to 21 for the bill. Republicans aren't even a majority in either house."

Compulsory Training Advocated at U. of W.

Madison — Male University of Wisconsin students would be required to take two years of military training under a bill introduced in the senate today by the committee on legislative procedure.

The bill, requested by Senator Kenneth White (R) River Falls, would authorize the regents to establish exemptions. A course in military tactics now is given at the university on an optional basis.

Senator White introduced a similar bill at the 1937 session. He is a major in the 120th Field Artillery of the Wisconsin National Guard.

Nazi Leader at Helm in Danzig

Senate Makes Albert Forster Chief of State; Border Closed

Danzig — The Danzig senate in solemn session voted today to make Albert Forster, Nazi party gauleiter of Danzig, the free city's chief of state.

This means that Arthur Greiser, who has hitherto been head of the little state as its senate president, ceases to be chief executive.

Danzig's customs officers reported to free state officials today that Poland had closed the border between Poland and Danzig at 11 o'clock a. m. (4 a. m. C. S. T.).

Danzig's officials earlier had shut off telephone connections with Gdynia. This was said to be a reprisal against Polish action in refusing to accept calls for Gdynia.

It was announced officially that the German navy's 13,200-ton cadet training ship Schleswig Holstein would visit the free city, anchoring tomorrow in Danzig harbor.

A report by DNB, official German news agency, that the British consul general had left Danzig proved untrue. He was seen in the city at noon and the consulate said there were no plans for his departure.

Americans Officially Advised to Quit Reich

FIRM ATTITUDE

Short Ultimatum to Warsaw Is Expected In Berlin

Berlin — German troops stood ready today to back up Adolf Hitler's demands upon Poland and the British government notified its consuls to advise British nationals in Germany to leave.

The United States embassy this afternoon unequivocally and officially advised Americans to leave Germany.

The following statement was issued: "The American embassy upon inquiry has been informed and is continuing to inform Americans that it is desirable to leave Germany."

With the Nazis seeking the establishment of Germany's pre-war eastern boundaries, one high foreign official declared it was "very necessary" for Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck to go to Hitler quickly in his Bavarian mountain retreat.

Envisaging a possible re-enactment by Beck of the trip to Hitler's chalet last March by President Emil Hacha of Czechoslovakia, the foreign official said:

"The Poles know exactly what we want of them."

Zero Hour Near

The inference was that Poland had been apprised fully of Germany's demands, but that perhaps no zero hour yet had been set for her reply.

This zero hour was expected to-night after Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, following the swift conclusion of the Russian-German non-aggression pact, returned from Moscow and made his report.

There was a feeling that the best guess was that there would be a limited ultimatum to Poland of only a few hours.

Poland's only hope to avoid war then would be to send her foreign minister to Berchtesgaden to capitulate.

"Don't think for one moment that Hitler wants war," one spokesman said.

"Nobody would be happier than our fuhrer if the Poles accepted our conditions without bloodshed."

Understanding Seen At the same time, in the wake of the signing of the Russian-German pact, there were indications that a clear understanding already existed between Berlin and Moscow as to what to do about Poland in the event of war.

Along with the orders to British consuls for a general evacuation of British nationals, the staffs of the British and French embassies—with the exception of the ambassadors and a few secretaries—were preparing to leave.

French Ambassador Robert Coulondre last night presented what was believed to have been a reaffirmation of the French government's intention to stand by Poland.

Movements of troops and guns became more apparent in the heart of Berlin.

Anti-aircraft units, some moving in commandeered civilian trucks, passed briskly up the Unter den Linden.

With the danger of meeting the Russian army midway in Poland eliminated, the Nazis' determination to settle the Polish issue Turn to page 25 col. 6

Crew Terrorized as Lion Escapes; Coast Guard Shoots Animal

Cape May, N. J. — Coast guardsmen with rifles climbed aboard the S. S. Amazon six miles southeast of here today and shot a lion that had broken loose from a cargo of wild animals bound for Venezuela and was terrorizing the ship's crew.

In response to a wireless plea for help seven men armed with two sub-machine guns and 30-calibre rifles, left in the coast guard boat CD-159 shortly after noon.

Two hours later the ship wirelessed that the lion was dead and "many thanks for your help."

The Amazon's distress message intercepted by the coast guard said, in part: "Any ship in the neighborhood with guns on board. . . Lion broken out. . ."

The New York coast guard station got in touch with Frank "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Duck, who said:

"They'll have to shoot him. Can't catch a lion loose on a ship."

In the meantime two of Clyde Beatty's lion trainers volunteered from Atlantic City, N. J., to attempt to catch the lion alive.

British, French Military Missions To Leave for Home

Soviet-Nazi Pact Considered Death Warrant To Plans

Moscow — (P) — The British and French military missions were reported today to have decided to leave Moscow tomorrow, definitely breaking off negotiations with Soviet Russia for a three-power mutual assistance pact.

This decision was reached after Germany's foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop left Moscow by airplane at 1:30 p. m. to report to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler on his successful completion of a non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia.

Swastika flags were interspersed with the entrance of the huge Moscow civil airplane when von Ribbentrop arrived at the airport.

It was the first time in its history that Soviet Russia had officially put up Swastika emblems.

Members of the British and French military missions obtained their passports and visas last night and were expected to fly back to Paris and London tomorrow.

Germany and Soviet Russia bound themselves today not to war against each other nor even to associate themselves with any line-up of powers aimed "directly or indirectly at either."

Diplomatic quarters "expressed conviction that Article IV of the eight-paragraph nonaggression pact—that which covered taking sides with "any other grouping of powers" aimed at either nation—was the death warrant for any prospect of alliance with Britain and France.

Deliberate 8 Hours

The British and French had been seeking a mutual assistance treaty for more than four months.

The agreement was signed behind the Kremlin's massive walls about 12 hours after the arrival of Adolf Hitler's emissary to Joseph Stalin, foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. There were less than eight hours of formal deliberation.

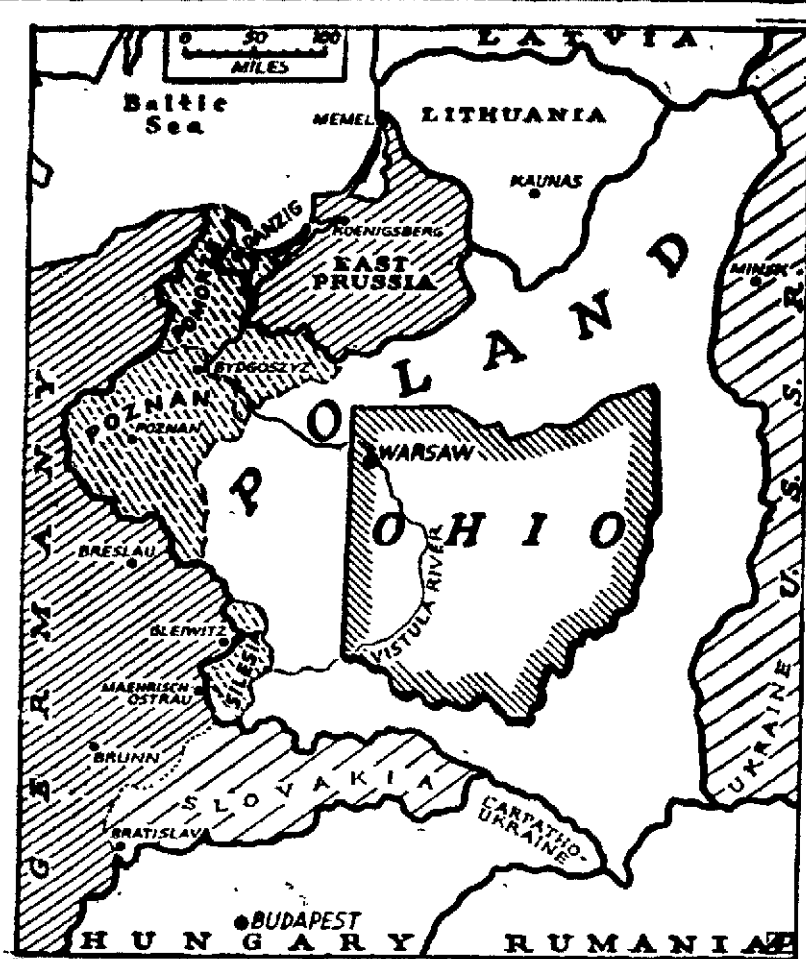

Stalin attended the final talks which started at 10 p. m. yesterday, and so sat in a three-hour session yesterday afternoon between von Ribbentrop and French Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov. Von Ribbentrop and Molotov signed the accord.

The pact shifted Europe's balance of power in one of the most critical periods since the world war. Apparently it barred any agreement among the Soviet Union, Britain and France on mutual assistance in the face of German demands on Poland.

Russian official quarters, however, have insisted the pact was not incompatible with a defensive alliance linking Moscow to Paris and London.

Russians, long coached to hate Nazi Germany, were informed of the accord through an early morning radio broadcast. To the average Russian the agreement meant neutrality in event of European war and an unthreatened western frontier in case of war with Japan in the east.

Moscow's government and party press hailed the pact as a forceful instrument for world peace.

HOW HITLER WOULD DIVIDE POLAND

The demands of Adolf Hitler to regain the Free City of Danzig, Poznan, Poznan, and Silesia—a total of 17,811 square miles—are indicated by the dotted diagonal lines on this Associated Press map. For purposes of comparison, Ohio, with an area of 41,040 square miles, has been superimposed on Poland, which now has a total area of 149,915 square miles.

Has Hour Come for Showdown In Europe? Statesmen Wonder As Warfare Appears Imminent

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — (P) — If we could have lifted the roots of the chancelleries of London, Paris, Berlin and Rome within the last few trying days we undoubtedly should have heard grave statesmen discussing—not Danzig, but whether the hour had arrived to settle by force the whole involved issue between the Berlin-Rome axis and the Anglo-French allies.

Those are discussions which don't get into print until history records them, but that's how far the European crisis has advanced.

Of course, barring wholly unexpected developments, the question of whether there is to be a general war rests with Poland. Unless she feels able to recede from her decision to use arms to defend herself from enforcement of Germany's sweeping claims, then war is likely to come.

In order to get at the unvarnished truth, however, we should have to know exactly what, if any, pressure is being brought to bear on Poland by her protectors, England and France, to impel her to fight or not to fight over Danzig and associated issues.

Real Issue at Stake

For if general war comes it won't be over any such isolated question as Danzig, though that may be the immediate cause. Any general war will be to settle whether the Anglo-French "halt Hitler" crusade is to become effective, or whether Herr Hitler and his ally, Mussolini, are to be free to continue with their expansionist programs.

So if England and France feel that there is still hope of settling the broad controversy without going onto the battlefield, they might naturally be urging Poland not to resort to war unless there is no other solution.

Prior to the developments of the last few days, observers generally understood that Poland's big allies were counselling her to go slow—to avoid war. They were committed to Poland's defense if she felt it necessary to fight, but wanted her to keep out of conflict.

May Change Views

Hitler's latest demands, however, calling for annexation of Polish territory in addition to Danzig, and establishment of a German protectorate over Poland, may easily have altered the viewpoint of the Anglo-French brotherhood. They presumably still hope for peace, though not at that price.

The London Times sums the position up by saying that "the admirable restraint which Poland has shown through several weeks of provocation creates confidence she will not allow any incident to drive her to the desperate arbitrament of war."

with the colors for months and the two classes which were called up just after last midnight.

Reports were current that three more classes might be called within the next 24 hours. Three more would bring France close to what is widely considered general mobilization.

Emergency troops, bearing war packs, sped to the German and Italian frontiers to bulwark vital posts as national defense leaders rallied the people for immediate defense in face of Germany's threat to France's ally, Poland.

The notices calling up group No. 2 of the seven groups of mobilizable reserves were posted on the walls of all public buildings alongside those calling up groups three and four which were plastered during the night.

Paris transportation was badly handicapped as the troop movement reached its full swing and cars and trucks were pulled off the streets under the government's requisition order. More than 60 per cent of Paris' buses were taken for army use.

Harvest workers under the prod of police sped to gather the grain.

"Get it in—wet or dry," was the order.

Program Presented At Auxiliary Unit's Meeting at Brillion

Brillion — At a meeting of the American Legion auxiliary at the legion hall Tuesday evening the following program was presented: assembly singing, a talk on the state parks and forests of Wisconsin by Mrs. Arthur Lau, a piano solo by Arline Wordell, motion pictures of the American Legion parade at Oshkosh last week, shown by Mrs. A. J. Neumeier and Mrs. Delbert. The program committee consisted of the Mesdames Arthur Lau, chairman, Ambrose Pfleger, A. J. Seip and Joseph Schneider.

During the business meeting that followed the program the delegate reports on the Oshkosh department convention were given by Mrs. Henry Horn and Miss Harriet Andrews. At the September meeting the annual election of officers will take place. A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Edward Janke and Mrs. Arthur Law was appointed.

After the business meeting a lunch was served.

A joint birthday celebration was held at the Louis Scharf home Sunday evening in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Scharf and her daughter, Mrs. Sylvester Art Echafskopf and buncos were played. Those present were Edward and Miss Alvina Lueckefeld of Wrightstown, the Misses Dorothy and Esther Artz and John Mathews of Manitowoc, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Scharf and daughter Lois, Mrs. Arno Scharf and family and Irvin Arts, all of Brillion.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Maechtle and son George, Miss Minnie Wagner and Allan Zorn of Port Washington were guests at the Otto Zorn home Sunday.

Mrs. Eugene Becker was hostess to the members of her bridge club at her home Tuesday afternoon. High honors were received by Mrs. Charles Bartz and Mrs. William Binsfeld, and Mrs. Harold Jensen received the floater.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lindner and Miss Mildred Kraus spent the weekend in upper Michigan.

The Rev. Elmer Elshoff of Cleveland, Ohio, and the Rev. and Mrs. Edmond Hennig of Chilton were guests at the Rev. John Siegle home Monday.

The following local people attended a meeting of the Women's Missionary Societies of Reformed churches at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church at Appleton Monday evening: the Rev. and Mrs. John G. Siegle, Mr. and Mrs. August Schaefer and the Mesdames F. I. Lueckefeld, Peter Hansen, Flora Seefeldt, Henry Becker, Ernst Abel, John Hintz and Henry Abel. Other places represented were Green Bay, Potter, Chilton, Oshkosh, Dale and Fremont.

Elmer Mumm returned to his home Saturday after completing the summer course at the University of Illinois at Evanston.

Members of the bridge club motored to Reif's Mills on Tuesday for a luncheon and from there they went to Manitowoc to spend the remainder of the afternoon. Those in the party were the Mesdames R. W. Schulze, Paul Herr, Otto Bartz, Mando Ariens, Hilmer Johnson, L.

AT FIFTEEN SHE HAS TWO CHILDREN

Blonde, blue-eyed Mrs. John Norton, married at 12 and twice a mother at 15, voiced a hope in Louisville that her two sons, the second three days old, would become preachers like her father. Her husband, 26, is a tobacco plant employee.

Text of Non-Aggression Pact Between Germany and Russia

Berlin — (P) — Following is the text of the German-soviet non-aggression pact:

The German reich's government and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics, moved by a desire to strengthen the state of peace between Germany and the U.S.S.R. and in the spirit of the provisions of the neutrality treaty of April 1926, between Germany and the U.S.S.R., have decided the following:

1. The two contracting parties obligate themselves to refrain from every act of force, every aggressive action and every attack against one another, including any single action or that taken in conjunction with other powers.
2. In case one of the parties of this treaty should become the object of warlike acts by a third power, the other party will in no way support this third power.
3. The governments of the two contracting parties in the future will constantly remain in consultation with one another in order to inform each other regarding questions of common interest.
4. Neither of the high contracting parties will associate itself with any other grouping of powers which directly or indirectly is aimed at the other party.
5. In the event of a conflict between the contracting parties concerning any question, the two parties will adjust this difference or conflict exclusively by friendly exchange of opinions or, if necessary, by an arbitration commission.
6. The present treaty will extend for a period of ten years with the condition that if neither of the contracting parties announces its abrogation within one year of expiration of this period, it will continue in force automatically for another period of five years.
7. The present treaty shall be ratified within the shortest possible time. The exchange of ratification documents shall take place in Berlin. The treaty becomes effective immediately upon signature.

Young GOP Will Hear Talk by Heil

Torchlight Parade Will Be Feature of State Meet at Sheboygan

More than a thousand Young Republicans are expected to attend the 2-day state convention at Sheboygan Friday and Saturday. Outagamie county will send a delegation including 14 official delegates.

A torchlight parade Friday evening will be one of the features of the convention. About 40 slogans—intended on large cardboard will be carried in the parade. The convention banquet will be held on Saturday night.

Governor Julius P. Heil will speak at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The subject of his address will be "Young Republicans' First Line of Defense in '40." Other speakers to appear on the program are Frank B. Gannett, eastern editor known throughout the country as an outspoken critic of the New Deal, and Dr. L. Gullickson, state Republican chairman. Gullickson will outline the program he hopes Young Republicans will sponsor between now and the end of the 1940 campaign.

Petition Filed for Addition to Bakery

A petition favoring an addition to the Spilker Bakery, 532 N. Richmond street, has been filed in city hall, according to Mayor Goodland. The petition, signed by six property owners, said it would be "all right to build the addition as an outdoor incinerator were eliminated."

Action on a request to change two blocks on Richmond street from the residential to the local business district was deferred by the council at its last meeting. Under the city zoning laws business property in residential district cannot be improved.

Grading Work Started On Alice, Lawe Streets

Grading work has been started by the city street department crews on Alice street and on Lawe street from Alice to Parkway boulevard, according to Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer. The crews recently completed grading streets in the new Oakcrest addition.

Appleton Night to be Observed At Waupaca County Fair Friday

Weyauwega — For the first time in the history of the Waupaca County fair, there will be an entire night's program set aside for the city of Appleton. The evening of Friday, opening day of the exposition at Weyauwega, has been designated Appleton night, in honor of Bob Neller, ventriloquist, featured attraction at the fair and a native of Appleton who has aroused nationwide attention with his specialty.

Waupaca County fair will be held at Weyauwega on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Special features have been arranged on Friday for Appleton night, according to K. P. Van Epps, secretary of the fair association. Mayor Goodland and all members of the Appleton city council, and other prominent citizens, will be present, and the mayor will pay tribute to Bob Neller in the form of a short talk and the presentation of a gift. There will be other attractions on this occasion to make Appleton night one of the highlights of the fair.

The Sons of the American Legion Drum Corps and Drill Team Appleton, will be present and will entertain with drills and music in front of the grandstand, previous to the opening of the stage show.

Mobilization by France Better. Peace Outlook

German People Must Still Be Persuaded to Go to War, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The crisis in Europe proves conclusively that the sources of information of the department of state are accurate and prophetic. Several weeks ago, Secretary Hull told members of the senate foreign relations committee what was expected in a general way to materialize in August, and some of the senators were inclined to be skeptical—they thought the secretary was unduly apprehensive.

Information from the American embassies and legations abroad has consistently been to the effect that the powers of Europe were going to reach a climax in their jockeying for advantage this summer. That was one of the reasons President Roosevelt didn't want congress to postpone action on the neutrality law revision. Indeed, he was of the opinion that a war might be prevented if the congress notified the world this summer that any nation could come to America and buy war supplies in time of war.

Just how much the refusal of the American congress to repeal the arms embargo encouraged Chancellor Hitler to strike this summer, on the theory that the congress was adjourned and could not be summoned back in time to permit the allies to get assurances of a continuous flow of American war materials, is one of those questions that probably will never be answered. But the fact is Berlin is moving in to action in late August as predicted by high officials here.

Cuts Vacation. The decision of the president to return to Washington, cutting his vacation trip, does not mean that a call for an extra session will be made at once. Rather there will be a tendency now on the part of the administration to let events force the issue. For many of the critics of the president have broadly accused him of stirring up the war talk, especially when he permitted his ambassadors to talk confidentially to the senate members.

Was the president, therefore, unduly alarmed? The evidence this week shows that he feared the very contingencies which have arisen, and now that the crisis is coming to a head, the hope there is that some way may yet be found to bring about a peaceful solution without the necessity of any further steps in Washington at this time. This feeling prevails because the mere calling of a special session is likely to produce certain effects and give rise to a possible impression of American participation when there is no such intention.

Economic Interests. The American people have indicated as clearly as public opinion can possibly outline it that they do not want the United States dragged into a war. But the furnishing of war materials is something which is in a different category, and, as pointed out in these dispatches earlier this week, if Canada is to become the base of supply for the British and French, it may well be that American economic interests will be directly affected, especially in the possible emigration of skilled workmen, of whom there is a scarcity already. This may indirectly affect American wage scales.

The underlying thought here is that war is not going to materialize this summer, though it is recognized an untoward event may set the sparks flying at any moment. The Russian managers have been watched with intense interest, but it cannot be said that they are unexpected. Diplomatic information here for some time has been to the effect that Germany and Russia were apt at any time to draw closer together.

While it is assumed that Russia has not directly allied herself with Germany, but has in effect declared herself out of any combat, it is realized that third party actions may change the whole picture. Perhaps the most interesting immediate effect is on American public opinion. Up to now the pro-ally sympathizers have had to contend with the argument that the British were tak-

Box on Three-Wheel Motorcycle Is Only Utility Compartment

The boxlike compartment mounted on the new three-wheel motorcycle of the city police department shrouds no mystery, police said today. The large metal compartment on the motorcycle has been the cause of wonderment since the machine has been placed in use for the marking of parked cars.

It was explained that the compartment serves only as utility container and at present carries little else but the rider's raincoat, an extra marking stick and chalk. The three-wheel motorcycles first were built for use in making deliveries of small parcels. The machines proved efficient for marking of parked cars by police and their use by police departments then became general.

Motorcycle Officer Carl Kuntz, who is in charge of time checking of parked cars, uses a short pole with a piece of chalk attached to the end to mark the machines. Kuntz says his marking gadget was his own idea. At the end of the short pole are several inches of rubber hose which "gives" as he touches it in riding by. This eases the strain on the hand and arm, he says.

Russian alliance is of more immediate value to Berlin. So, with Japan hesitant about getting into the European muddle, and Russia declaring herself virtually a neutral, the showdown will have to come along as between the British-French policy and the Berlin diplomacy. In Washington, it is assumed that the German people are not yet ready to fight and that French and British mobilization will cause considerable alarm and hesitation in Germany, where, after all, the people must yet be persuaded to go to war. The outlook for peace would seem to be better now than French mobilization has begun.

2 Cases of Contagion Reported During Week

Two cases of contagious diseases, one of whooping cough and one of chicken pox, were reported to the city health department last week, according to Claude N. Greisch, deputy health officer. Active cases in the city at the end of the week were five cases of whooping cough and one case of chicken pox.

Kidnaped Pastor Taught Arabs How to Play Poker

New York—(AP)—Still weak from his ordeal as hostage of a band of Palestine Arab kidnapers, the Rev. Gerould R. Goldner, 29, of Mogadore, Ohio, told Wednesday how he taught his 15 captors to play poker with deuces wild.

"It all started when one of my captors noticed that I looked pretty blue," the pastor explained. "He pulled out a deck of cards, and I taught him how to play with deuces wild and with seven cards. I won his shoes, hat, cloak, the rope around his head and all his cartridges."

The minister added that when his heavily-armed opponent pretended he wasn't looking he shoved back the winnings to "save his face," an act which may have helped Mr. Goldner save his own neck.

The young clergyman and his father, the Rev. Jacob Goldner of Cleveland, were captured July 18 by the Arab band 100 miles outside of Jerusalem as they were returning from a visit to a Greek monastery. The father was released to arrange for the ransom, and his son was freed a week later on payment of "about half" the $5,000 demanded.

He was stricken with illness while he was a prisoner, forced to sleep in a cave and to live on rancid goat's milk, stagnant water, water-melon juice, grapes and Arab bread. "When I was released," he said, "I had to kiss each of the band three times on the cheek as a token of affection and respect. The more demonstrative one is among those people the better it is for him."

Met by his wife when he arrived on the Statestead last night, Mr. Goldner said they probably would remain here a few days before returning to Ohio.

Softball Teams Drawn by Lot to Play in Tourney

8 Squads of 11 Players
Each Will be Selected Tonight

New London—Every softball fan in the city, good and poor, young and old, will have a chance to play for competition and cash prizes in the city-wide softball tournament which will be held at the city hall park the next two weeks under the sponsorship of the New London Sports Association. The drawing up of eight teams of 11 men each is scheduled to take place at the Werner-Raschke garage at 8 o'clock this evening.

Registrations for the tournament have been coming in fast, according to Lester Werner, president of the association, and at least eight teams will be arranged. A 50-cent registration fee required of each player will go towards tournament expenses and cash prizes.

Games will be played on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights under the lights next week, two games each evening. Each team will play three games in championship and consolation games.

Catchers are Captains. To provide balanced teams and give everyone a chance, eight catchers will be appointed as team captains and their line-ups will be drawn by lot. To off-set any outstanding pitching talent on some of the teams, pitchers for each game will be named by the opposing catcher.

Prizes will be set for first, second and third place team winners, and consolation and trophy prizes will be provided. Collections made among spectators at the scene of the games also will be used for prize money.

Two New Members are Admitted to Lions Club

New London—Forest Middlestead, new manager of the Schultz Brothers store, and Adolph Lercher of Friedman and Lercher, were admitted as new members of the New London Lions club at the supper meeting at the Elwood hotel Tuesday evening.

Middlestead came to New London several weeks ago from Illinois to manage the Schultz Brothers new store here. Mr. and Mrs. Middlestead are making their home at 317 E. Washington street.

New London Student Returns After Work on Fair Project

New London—John Calef, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Calef, who has been in New York city since last November making miniature World's Fair models for the Fisher Body corporation, arrived home Tuesday night to continue his studies at Washington high school. John left in his junior year last year and worked in New York all winter, spending the last summer at a summer resort. He was one of a number of boys selected from over the nation to help make the miniatures on display at the New York fair.

Mrs. Calef's sister, Mrs. Frank W. Hannum of Muskegon, Mich., returned to her home Wednesday after a 2-day visit here.

Guests arriving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Ziebur Tuesday for a several days visit were

Kathryn Wilson Heads Golf Club

Succeeds Mrs. J. W. Monsted as President of Women's Organization

New London—Miss Kathryn Wilson was elected new president of the New London Women's Golf club Wednesday afternoon to succeed Mrs. J. W. Monsted. Mrs. Rudd Smith was elected secretary and Miss Betty Morse and Mrs. H. A. Gressen were named tournament chairmen. The present officers, Mrs. Monsted, Mrs. R. L. Fitzgerald and Mrs. W. S. Park, will serve as an executive board next year. The new officers will take over in the spring.

Regular women's activities will be closed with the annual jamboree at Springvale course next Wednesday afternoon. Each member is privileged to bring a guest to the affair. A 1 o'clock pot-luck luncheon will be held at the clubhouse, followed by golf. Crazy stunts will be arranged and special prizes will be set up. Mrs. H. A. Steinberg, tournament chairman, and the present officers are arranging the event. Forty-four ladies turned out for play yesterday afternoon and Miss Betty Morse won the prize in a tombstone tournament. Epithets on sticks represented the tombstones and each player was required to plant her stick at the end of the thirty-eight stroke, which is ladies' par for the course. Miss Morse got farthest to the seventh green. Mrs. E. C. Jost won the prize at bridge.

Mrs. H. L. Palmer and Miss Daisy Palmer of Milwaukee.

Miss Helen Knapstein left last week in company with Miss Louise Schroeder of Clintonville to attend a national meeting of postal supervisors at Boston, Mass., this week. After the business sessions the pair will visit New York city and the World's Fair and will stop at Washington, D. C. enroute home. They will be gone two weeks.

Miss Irene Knapstein has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Cadel, at Detroit, Mich., the last three weeks and is expected home sometime this week.

Mrs. William Dent spent Wednesday at Oakbrook at an executive board meeting of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's auxiliary at the home of the state president, Mrs. J. Stranen. Mrs. Dent is chairman of the executive board.

The Misses Myrtle Wilke, and Florence Ruisman, in company with Helen and Peggy Olson of Oakbrook, returned Tuesday night from a 3-day trip to Duluth and Superior. The party went on a fishing excursion on Lake Superior.

Mrs. John Zitzke and Miss Alice Delzer are visiting this week at Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ebert and Wayne Stern attended the state fair at Milwaukee Sunday.

Visitors at the W. T. Maxted home Monday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Diercks of Antigo.

Guests at the R. D. Wilkinson home last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Chiles of Rockford, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Jason Waber and daughter, Maxine, and Mrs. Alice Waterman of Gobles, Mich.

Miss Marguerite Riedle of Milwaukee is visiting this week at the B. H. Boese home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chappel of Lansing, Mich., arrived Tuesday to spend several days this week as guests at the D. N. Vanderveer home.

Mrs. Charlotte Frank, 702 Smith street, underwent a major operation at Community hospital Wednesday.

Barbara Meinhardt, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Meinhardt of Waupaca, former New London resident, submitted to a tonsillectomy at a physician's office here Wednesday.

League Game Called Off Because of Wet Grounds

New London—The Two Rivers-New London baseball game in the Northern States league was called off here last night because of muddy grounds. The game was the second consecutive home tilt called off this week because of rain. The Bulldogs will go to Seymour Sunday afternoon and no doubt will face a heavy schedule of make-up games next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bates entertained at dinner at their home Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Bessie Thorpe of Milwaukee who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ralph Williams, at Shiocton. Guests at the dinner were Miss Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Mae Nagel of Milwaukee, and Mr. and Mrs. John Yost and Mr. and Mrs. August Bratz and son, Harry, of New London.

The Men's club of Emanuel Lutheran church has been invited to a meeting of the Wolf River Council of Men's clubs at Manawa Thursday evening. A number of New London members plan to attend. The meeting is the first of a series of five which will be held in the Wolf river valley this fall. A ladies' night meeting will be held at New London Sunday, Oct. 22.

The third Men's day program will be held at Springvale golf course Friday afternoon. Golf will be played in the afternoon, followed by lunch at 8:30. On the committee are W. T. Maxted, chairman, G. F. Wernberg, A. L. Severance and Arnold Johnson.

Books for Younger Readers Released

'Old Forts and Real Folks'
Among Non-Fiction
Volumes at Library

New London—With school days not far off, the New London Public library has received several new books for the younger readers, some of the information variety and some that are just good yarns, according to Miss Grace Fleischauer, librarian.

The early history of Wisconsin and the story of some of her distinguished pioneers is cleverly told by Susan Burdick Davis in "Old Forts and Real Folks." Miss Davis is dean of freshmen women at the University of Wisconsin and is a native Badger. Another non-fiction book for young people is "Woodcraft" by Bernard S. Mason. For those who enjoy making things, there's "Cork Ships and How to Make Them" by Peter Adams. The directions are simple and the materials are easily found in almost any household.

In "Runner of the Mountain Tops" by Mabel Robinson is the life story of Louis Agassiz, one of the world's most gifted naturalists.

Older girls may like "Lost Island" by Nora Burglon, a thrilling story of a girl in the frozen north, training a team of huskies and struggling for a sledging contract to help make a living.

"All the Days were Antonia's" by Gretchen McKown and Florence Gleason tells of an exciting trip across the continent in the stage coach.

Two circus stories are also in the collection. One for older boys and girls, by Noel Streetfield, is called "Circus Shoes."

For younger readers "The Circus Boat" by John Hooper relates the adventures of a monkey, an elephant, a giraffe, a parrot, the cabin boy, the captain and the keeper of the animals on a sailing trip from town to town along the coast of Maine.

Five Scouts Receive Advancement Badges

New London—Five boy scouts of Troop 7 received badges for advancement in rank at a meeting at the American Legion clubhouse Tuesday night. Arden Smith was awarded a first class badge, Robert Joubert, David Smith and James Crisby were advanced to second class and Floyd Watkins received his tenderfoot rating.

Assistant Pastor At Emanuel Church Gets New Position

New London—The Rev. LeRoy Ristow, assistant pastor at the Emanuel Lutheran church the last three years and instructor in the fifth and sixth grades of the Lutheran parochial school, has accepted a call as assistant pastor at New Ulm, Minn., and will take over his new position Sept. 1. He will be relieved of teaching duties at New Ulm and will devote his time to ministerial work.

The Rev. Mr. Ristow came to New London directly from the seminary at Theisville, Wis., three years ago. He is visiting his home at Fond du Lac this week.

The Emanuel Lutheran congregation is awaiting the acceptance of a call for a new man to take his place here.

Dorothy Rohloff to Remain at Waupaca

Waupaca—After considering another position that meant an advancement in her profession, Miss Dorothy Rohloff notified the board of education Wednesday morning that she would return to Waupaca as kindergarten teacher for the coming year. Six months ago the board inserted a clause into the contract given each teacher that no resignations would be accepted after Aug. 1, but in this instance after discussion of the matter at a special meeting Tuesday evening, the board agreed not to interfere if she desired to make the change.

ON TRIP TO CANADA
Seymour—Mrs. Frank Longrie, Mrs. William Beck and daughters Billy and Carol, left Wednesday morning for a two-week trip into Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rankin left Wednesday morning to attend the state fair in Milwaukee and later to visit relatives in Chicago.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Bernhardt and family are at Forest Junction this week attending the camp meeting and Sunday School convention of the Appleton district of the Evangelical church.

JUMPS ARTERIAL

New London—Herman Stuchman, route 2, New London, paid a fine of $1 and costs in police court of Justice Fred J. Rogers Wednesday afternoon for failure to stop at the arterial at S. Pearl street and Beacon avenue. He was arrested Tuesday night by New London police.

Honolulu, U. S. A. — Dear Staff: This American City is the melting pot of the world. More than fifty nationalities are represented. Of course, many are visitors, come to enjoy Hawaii's far famed climate and sports. But many more are people who came to visit, and remained to live. Now, in thinking about this mixed population, it occurred to me that here is a real test of screen popularity.

Fidler means, since theaters here are attended by just about every nationality, stars who are local favorites should come close to being favorites the world over.

It's been proven conclusively that many actors who rank high in large cities don't rate at all in small towns, and vice versa, many who are fan favorites in the East receive public sniffs in the West. Stars who draw mobs in Dixie often don't draw flies in Minnesota. But here in America's Territory of Hawaii, where Japanese, Chinese, Germans, French and Spanish relax and play together, a star who attains popularity should really appeal to all classes and races.

Spencer Tracy, I find, after talking to theater owners, is the top favorite of the Island. Shirley Temple is very popular, too, and Clark Gable is extremely well liked. Joan Crawford is a pet, but theater men have been receiving complaints from patrons about Joan's pictures. Robert Taylor is well received, but no rave. Folks here seem to prefer Tyrone Power. Ginger Rogers is their momentary pet peeve.

When I asked which of the newly rising starlets are being accepted by the Islanders, the reply I received was: "None. It will require years, and many good pictures, to build stars acceptable to Honolulu and other cities in Hawaii."

favorites here. Producers should remember that—and give old favorites stronger pictures.

Dear Beachcomber: This ukulele strumming vacation is fine for you, but how about us? This morning, in roars an actor—a six-foot, two-inch actor, brawny and well proportioned—and he's boiling. He says he was mentioned in your "blankety blank column" as a double-blank extra, who works for $13.50 a day. And he's not a triple-blank extra. He's a character man—and he never works for less than $15 a day! Suppose you come on home and handle your own athletic events.

Lions Club Starts New Season; Meets At Cafe in Waupaca

Waupaca—The first meeting of the Lions club after a summer of inactivity was held at the Fairbanks cafe Monday evening. The 6:30 dinner was attended by members of the club and four guests: Dr. C. E. Clark, Kansas City; E. P. Halde- man, Canal Zone; Maurice Gleason, Chicago, and Dr. A. M. Christoffer- son, Waupaca.

Mr. Halde- man discussed informal- ly the construction, operation and maintenance of the Canal Zone.

E. D. Luther is president of the Lions club for the ensuing year. This was the first meeting at which he has presided.

A special meeting of the con- gregation of Our Saviour Lutheran church was called for Monday evening to discuss the replacement of the heating system in the church parsonage. Fifty-two voting mem- bers were present and decided to replace the present system with an oil burner. A subscription list for pledges was started immediately.

come next Wednesday, and don't let on that you knew they were planning to surprise you. Edgar Bergen intended to sail on the same boat, but either business interfered or Charlie McCarthy couldn't tear himself away from his girl friends. They will take the next boat and pass you somewhere between here and Honolulu. Of course, you could stand on deck and exchange your "My-lan't-it-a-small world" remarks via megaphone.

Here are a few odds and ends to help you endure the tedium of surf-boarding: Loretta Young, vacationing at Lake Arrowhead, is nursing a heavy cold. And that seems like treating a cold much too nicely—taking it on a vacation... Understand the insurance companies paid off plenty when Carole Lombard's illness held up that scheduled RKO picture, and that the same company has insured the work-ability of the "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" troupe for a million... Mark Garbo's long-an- nounced vacation plans "indefinitely deferred"—the studio has ordered her to stand by for added scenes for "Ninotchka"... Better add Richard Greene and Virginia Field to your list of most likely altar trekkers—they insist they're just "good friends" but Dick's mother had some very lengthy conferences with Virginia before she sailed for England.

Youngster Is Guest of Honor At Surprise Farewell Party

New London—Fourteen little classmates of Joan Monroe, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Monroe, Dickinson street, staged a surprise farewell party in her honor at Hatten Recreational park Wednesday afternoon. The Monroe family will move next week to Clear Lake, O., where Mr. Monroe is at present establishing a new automobile sales business.

The girls in the party were Carol Meeker, Ellen Smith, Barbara Wells, Mary Jane Brault, Delores McPeak, Bonnie Lercher, Mary Platte, Jane Platte, Alice Emans, Jane Nugent, Mary Ellen Stewart.

Shirley Beaudoin, Marilyn Beaudoin and Joyce Palmer. Shirley Radtke and Delores Brault assisted with the party, a scavenger hunt, games and lunch. The guest of honor was presented with an umbrella as a farewell gift from the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bates entertained at dinner at their home Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Bessie Thorpe of Milwaukee who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ralph Williams, at Shiocton. Guests at the dinner were Miss Thorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Mae Nagel of Milwaukee, and Mr. and Mrs. John Yost and Mr. and Mrs. August Bratz and son, Harry, of New London.

The Men's club of Emanuel Lutheran church has been invited to a meeting of the Wolf River Council of Men's clubs at Manawa Thursday evening. A number of New London members plan to attend. The meeting is the first of a series of five which will be held in the Wolf river valley this fall. A ladies' night meeting will be held at New London Sunday, Oct. 22.

The third Men's day program will be held at Springvale golf course Friday afternoon. Golf will be played in the afternoon, followed by lunch at 8:30. On the committee are W. T. Maxted, chairman, G. F. Wernberg, A. L. Severance and Arnold Johnson.

New Post Office Will be Dedicated Aug. 30 at Waupaca

Building Will Not be Open for Business
Until Later Date

Waupaca — Postmaster James Carew is in charge of the dedication of the new post office which will be formally opened to the public Aug. 30, although it will not be ready for business until a later date.

A parade led by the high school band will start at the corner of Main and Granite streets and move directly to the post office. The band will be followed by the national guard, the colors of the American Legion, the Orville Ballard post and then by official cars with representatives of the post office department and the United States Treasury department. These cars will be followed by visiting postmasters, the Boy and Girl Scouts, American Legion auxiliary, citizens, and then the various units of the Veterans' Home with their drum corps and bands.

Upon arriving at the post office the Orville Ballard post will dedicate the new flag, raise it and after the salute the high school band will play the national anthem.

After an address of welcome by Mayor I. B. Erickson, Roy Dobins, superintendent of the sixth division of railway mail service, Chicago, will deliver an address. He will be followed by a representative of the treasury department.

Among the prominent persons who will be seated on the platform will be Mayor I. B. Erickson, heads of all civic organizations in the city, Congressman and Mrs. Reid Murray, former Congressman and Mrs. E. E. Browne, Charles E. Broughton, Sheboygan, Democratic national committeeman and Mrs. Louise Givan, Milwaukee, Democratic national committeewoman.

The organizations which will be represented and their leaders are: Waupaca Association of Commerce, Reid McLean; junior chamber of commerce, David Allen; Lion's club, Roy D. Luther; Conservation league, William J. Roach; board of education, Harry Lawson; American Legion, Paul Thatcher; and Lester M. Emans, superintendent of schools.

Women Golfers Hold Invitational Meet

Chilton — The Chilton Women's Golf club entertained the Tacodah women's club, Fond du Lac, and Pine Hills, Sheboygan, at an invitational meet at the Calumet golf club Tuesday afternoon. Prizes were awarded for low net, low gross, and low for first 5 holes on each nine.

The Chilton women's club will play an "instate" golf match with Ridgeway club of Neenah at Chilton on Monday.

In the women's championship play Elsie Arps advanced to the finals with a victory over Sally Arps. Bernice Tesch and Helen Madler still have to play to determine finalist in the lower bracket.

A Little More Cooperation May Save Democracy in U. S.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Bolshevism and fascism embrace to break the power of democracy in Europe. Von Ribbentrop, the Nazi foreign minister, in Moscow! Standing figuratively, if not in the flesh, before the tomb of Lenin, father of red bolshevism. A Nazi foreign mission in red square. At the Kremlin. Hitler's anti-communist pact? Stalin's war against fascism? Bygones. What's an ideology between friends when world power is at stake?

Raymond Clapper

They have all but done it, all but shifted the balance of power decisively. France already a second-rate power. England next? Dictatorship advancing day after day. Democracy retreating day after day. Dictatorship succeeding. Democracy failing. Study the map of Europe. Look at those huge, dominant, black areas of dictatorship. See for yourself where the power now lodges.

Possibly before this week is over democracy will have been virtually suspended in France and England. For some time France has been operating under decrees. England may have to do the same, in reality if not in form. Such must be expected when a war emergency exists.

From Italy, Japan and Germany we have a clear demonstration of the efficiency of ruthless economic and political dictatorship for a nation which is pushing along the road of conquest. Except with dictatorship, Soviet Russia probably could not have made such rapid progress in building a new industrial nation out of the ruins left by the rotten Czarist regime.

Events Bound to be Disturbing in America

These events, tragically battering down the things which we have always regarded as right and best for peoples, are bound to disturb here in America, bound to make us wonder whether democracy is a doomed way of life, unfitted by its essential characteristics to the struggle for survival, destined for extinction not only in Europe but everywhere as the slow-moving, sluggish dinosaur disappeared from the face of the earth, a victim of its own constitutional inadequacies.

We grope for answers. We are almost compelled to recognize that Hitler has forged a state which, for his purposes, is more effective than democracy. It is a very real question now whether Britain can survive without devising a more absolutely controlled nation, at least for the time being. At this moment, Germany is buying large quantities of cotton, rubber, acids and other essential war supplies in England, against which it is easily possible they may be used within the near future. Employees of four of England's largest railroads have announced they will strike on Saturday — during England's darkest week-end — unless a wage increase is granted. Survival in the Europe of today is extremely difficult under such conditions.

Conditions of Nature Make It Easier Here

We come to our own problem. God has helped us. Conditions of nature make it easier for us to hold on to democracy. We have geographical protection. We have abundant materials and do not have to ration food and manufacturing materials as Germany does. We have a going economy and are not faced with the internal economic chaos that forced dictatorship in Russia and in Germany and Italy, for that matter.

Those are the factors that help insure democracy for America. But our margin of safety would be more comfortable if we did a little more than we are doing to supplement the protection nature has given us. You know what I mean. Some cooperation among the passengers in this boat — some realization that which prompted the recent raid against the wages and hours law, for example. Less dirty pool.

unity, a sense of all being passengers in the life boat, and in that case God already has fixed it so we'll be saved.

Hog Production Up; Prices Down

Farmers on Way to Trouble Which Confronted Them in 1933

Chicago — (AP) — The sixth anniversary of the government's pig slaughter program today found the nation's hog farmers well on the way toward the same kind of trouble that brought on the program in 1933.

Stimulated by existence of abundant corn and other feed supplies, hog production has been stepped up sharply to levels nearing those that preceded the government program and the great droughts of 1934 and 1936. Prices, as a result were the lowest in five years.

At $5.56 a hundredweight, average hog price in the Chicago wholesale market yesterday was more than $2 below the average a year ago and nearly $7 below the August, 1937 average, when hogs reached an 11-year peak of $13.75.

Hogs still were bringing $2 more than they did the day the first of the 6,000,000 small pigs and 200,000 bred sows sold to the government were killed in an effort to better the swine raisers' economic status. In August, 1934, hogs were selling at about $4 a hundredweight, having recovered slightly less than a dollar from record lows touched in 1932.

The nation's hog population was estimated at 39,000,000 on Jan. 1, 1935, a reduction of 23,000,000 in two years. A steady increase has been recorded since and at the start of this year the total was 49,011,000.

The South Pole was first reached by Roald Amundsen in 1911.

New Secretary Named For County Farm Agent

Chilton — At a meeting of the agricultural committee at the courthouse Tuesday, Miss Eleanor Weins of Hilbert was selected to succeed Miss Christine Nickel as secretary.

A. L. McMahon, county agent, Miss Nickel, who has held this position for two years, will continue her studies at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Weins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Weins. She is a graduate of Hilbert high school and the Oshkosh Business college, and was an honor student during her school career.

Taxpayers Project to Begin Within Few Days

Excavation for sanitary sewers on Outagamie street and Lorain street.

In the Schnelder plat west of Badger avenue will begin within a few days under a taxpayers project, according to Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer. The crew will complete work this week on sewers on Cavanaugh avenue, Oakcrest court and Lehman lane.

LABOR—PROMISE AND PRACTICE

The New York state Federation of Labor has just finished pounding the National Labor Relations Board until its sponsors couldn't recognize it.

Specifically the Federation spoke of the operations of this board as "unfair, inequitable and subversive of the true principles of collective bargaining." At the same time great concern was evidenced by the Federation over the nearly utter deprivation of rights of minority craft workers who have been either brutally swept along by the revolutionary rulings of this un-American board or contemptuously cast into the ditch.

Almost at the same time one of the principal executives of the National Association of Manufacturers spoke before the Congress on Education for Democracy and played with factual correctness the same "disregard for certain individual rights of minority workers" as is so evident all over totalitarian countries. This industrialist said:

"One can be a firm believer, as I am, in the moral and legal right of any group that wishes to bargain collectively so to do, and at the same time be deeply concerned over the increasing tendency of government to trespass on the rights of helpless minorities under the cloak of democracy."

Despite the conceded decay and blight in the law and the rulings that now misgovern both workers and employers we have witnessed an adjournment of congress without passing any ameliorating legislation due to the President's glum insistence that the Wagner Act as written and John L. Lewis, its chief beneficiary, are all right as they were.

The President's conduct in this regard is very much like that of one certain Herbert Hoover and his stand in relation to prohibition just about eight years ago this time. While prohibition probably was the single issue that destroyed Herbert Hoover's chances of reelection the labor act and John L. Lewis are really only a part of the great mess known as Mr. Roosevelt's second term.

In the meantime that doughty individual known as the Little Fellow is ground between the great wheels of ambition.

CAN'T YOU HEAR THE EAGLES SCREAM?

Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma was head of the department of public speaking at his state university 20 years ago. And he made use of his opportunities.

Addressing the bright-eyed youngsters who were brought together for the convention of Young Democratic Clubs the Statesman from the Sooner state brought them to a cheering climax of pandemonium with his delicious and bejeweled language:

"The drums of public opinion are sounding the long roll. Now is the time to unleash the Devil Dogs of Democracy and set them baying on the trail of the Wolf of Wall Street. America, now the time to unsheathe the sword of human rights. Now is the time to raise the banner of Roosevelt for 1940."

Let the oldsters on the bandwagon hang on to their seats or they will be blown away for their bones can't stand the bumping along the ground. For 1940 is going to be a wonderful year, one that will put to shame Don Quixote battling there in Spain in the long ago against mere windmills.

Senator Lee has sounded the tocsin, smashed the bell with a big clapper, dynamited the oil well and even outshot Old Faithful geyser.

So hang on to your hats, get your store teeth tightly set together, secure a firm grip for your hands and sound footing for your pedal extremities, for the Devil Dogs are going to chase the Wolf with lolling tongue and deep-throated bayings and various fangs are to be unsheathed to glisten brightly in the noon day sun while again we march to Armageddon.

Only a fellow with a sourpuss like Ned Sparks might enquire what the Devil Dogs have been doing the last seven years and whether the sword is only unsheathed for a few weeks before the election.

But those of us who missed seeing the bloodhounds go over the ice after Eliza may find here a lost opportunity and probably out lost youth. Devil Dogs leaving behind them a blizzard of foam to mark their course may grip us with the fascination of a whole pack of Baskerville hounds.

MAN CRAVES THE PRESERVATION OF HIS WORK

Gutzon Borglum, our sculptor of titanic figures, may have dropped the paint pot upon himself.

Borglum, who is preserving four of our great presidents in the stone of Mount Rushmore out in South Dakota so that men 200,000 years from now may see what we were like, is not content. He is now blasting out a tunnel in the clear rock of the mountain for a hall of records to preserve our accomplishments even longer than the blighting effects of erosion can be stayed from destroying the great faces he has chiseled on the mountain side.

Ambition is a marvelous thing. And who would prevent if they could the soaring flights of men's imaginations? But the Sphinx that has existed only a few thousand years and which was probably erected by some ancient Coptic Borglum is unable to tell us its parentage or really what it means. And those other great caverns hewn out of the rock in Egypt or constructed by great blocks of granite carried many miles by thousands of slaves in a manner we cannot even understand and could not repeat, are all devoid of those messages the puny but ambitious and imaginative men of that ancient day were preparing just for us.

The final echoes have not yet receded from all those blaring comments that attended the burial of the Time Capsule at Flushing Meadows a short time ago, another step taken to acquaint succeeding generations with our marvelous and miraculous efforts; and down in Arkansas there is the base for that obelisk that Coin Harvey was going to build for the records to acquaint the bright new world with all the diseases of the old one. Mr. Harvey considered the old world diseased because it hadn't adopted his theory of silver coinage. But after he was no more Mr. Roosevelt took up that theory which made the obelisk unnecessary since the world has become so improved and all its corners brightened by the astonishing success of the new financial principle. The monument may be said to reside in the hearts of men.

But all these intense efforts to preserve our story are somehow to our credit. As to individual acts or policies we sometimes feel ashamed but in respect to the progress of the race as a whole we have the right to feel proud.

And the churchman may well look upon all these phenomena from the Sphinx and the pyramids to Rushmore mountain as sound evidence of the eternal striving of every faculty man has against obliteration.

Monuments of this tremendous character seem to speak the united voice of a people that though they die yet shall they live.

AND IT STILL LIVES

When the Moscow Pravda prints a front page editorial it is time for Ivan to get busy.

And that's just what the Pravda did upon the subject of religion. The Pravda says that religion must have more "anti-religious propaganda."

It warns that religion has not been finally extinguished and "the great and responsible problem" of its elimination must be fixed and solved. It continues:

"Even in cities and among workers there still exist people who have not broken with religion. Many continue to observe religious ceremonies and holidays."

After 20 years of smothering, after even the adoption of a constitution that specifically protects "anti-religious propaganda" and claps the hand over the mouths of any who would speak for the faith of their fathers, the Pravda's confession is pretty close to admission of failure.

When heavy-booted rulers may start with knout and finish off with gun, when OGPU agents may kick in front doors and tumble the family out of its bed, when twisted-minded haters may even refuse work to those who do not damn the heavens, and religion still lives it calls for a special and particular admiration for its endurance.

The story of man reveals that religion weakens when the ladder becomes too fat; and that it thrives in most vigorous fashion when it becomes the object of attack upon the part of those whose ways are evil and whose objects are destruction.

A ROSE AND ITS ODOR

The Earl of Rosslyn who died ten days ago received obituary notices in practically every paper in the country, for the Earl was a distinguished man.

His distinction was acquired through gambling. Wryly he mused in some confusion, "I ended up in bankruptcy court but I cannot understand it, because I seemed to be winning always."

In England they called the Earl an old sport; in France they referred to him as a roue; but had the delightful old plunger lived in America we would have called him a statesman.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York — Manhattan Marquee:

Even with the lure of air conditioning, Broadway show business is having a sorry summer. Except for the fantastically successful "Hellzapoppin'" which has been playing to standees several performances a week, there has been little enthusiasm for the summer's crop of make-believe. Fredric March and Florence Eldridge in "The American Way" at the Center Theatre are playing to steady patronage, but the production is the costliest in town, which means it has to have large houses all the time. For musicals there are "Yokel Boy," with the gayest score heard on Broadway in a long time, and "Streets of Paris" with the exotic Carmen Miranda and the funny-as-ever Bobby Clark. Three distinguished ladies of the theatre have carried on through the heat successfully — Katharine Cornell in "No Time For Comedy," Tallulah Bankhead in the amusing "Little Foxes" and Katharine Hepburn, brilliantly supported in "The Philadelphia Story."

On the Off-Beat:

A worker of the Fulton Fish Market entered the offices of the Fishery Council the other day holding a 25-pound halibut in one hand and a beer bottle in the other.

"I thought you'd be interested," he said. "I found the beer bottle inside the halibut."

"Absurd," said somebody. "That's a Pacific Halibut, one of the shipment that came across the country by train."

"So what?" replied the fisherman. "The beer bottle is from the west coast, too." He showed them. Stamped in the glass was: "Olympia Brewing Co., of Olympia, Washington."

No body knew whether the halibut drank the beer or not. He probably didn't.

Indignant Reader Dept.:

A stickler for the nicer things of literature writes from Tennessee that if I ever use the phrase "on account of" again when I patently mean "because," she will cease to pay my humble paragraphs any more heed, on account of she does not approve of such phraseology. This perturbs me, but not much. The phrase to which she objects does not pretend to elegance, nor do I. It is an expression youngsters often use; and it was a favorite literary device of the late Ring Lardner, especially in his "You Know Me, Al" stories. I think it a bit on the petty side to ostracize a gent on account of he occasionally says on account of. I hope the lady will reconsider.

S. P. M. to A. M.

The World's Fair has cost the dark-to-dawn merchants a great deal of unhappiness. Many of them who ordinarily would have closed their Castles of Carousing for the hot months of the summer have been kept open. They had the quaint idea that the Fair would bring them dorries of dough; that the town would fill with spendthrifts from Spokane and merry-makers from Massachusetts. Such, they now realize as they flounder in an ocean of red ink, was not the case.

Fifty-Second Street has been as lonely as a lane that leads to the cemetery. If it weren't for the hopeful cabbies lounging along the curb, you could hear a pin drop, if anyone were lucky enough to have a pin. The summer's night life has centered in less than a dozen places — La Conga, The Diamond Horseshoe, Leon and Eddie's, Havana-Madrid, the Stork Club, Mother Kelly's, the International Casino, the Roofs of the Pennsylvania, Astor, Baltimore and Waldorf-Astoria, and the Cotton Club. The irony lies in the fact that never in the town's history have night club producers provided such smart and elaborate entertainment, tried thought being they needed to outdo themselves in order to meet the Fair's competition. Result: The night clubs and the Fair are sobbing on each other's shoulders.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Aug. 27, 1914

From London it was reported that a terrific engagement is progressing in Lorraine and that 600,000 are in the battle, equally divided. From Philadelphia, the German consul received a communication to the effect that the Germans won a sweeping victory on the main battle front in Belgium. The dispatch said that losses on both sides were tremendous, the allies losing 70,000 killed, wounded, missing, or captured and the Germans about the same number.

High school officials indicated today that attendance this fall will probably set a record. It is expected that the number of pupils will exceed the 400 mark.

Eleven Appleton men were named for jury duty for the September term of circuit court: They are Henry Boye, Roscoe Clark, Charles Fose, August Fuchsgruber, Peter Klumb, L. F. Kutler, Conrad Milhaupt, John F. Rose, Henry Rosemeiss, Herman J. Schlegel, and George Walter.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Aug. 22, 1929

George Schmidt, W. O. Thiede, and H. Brehm left for Minneapolis to attend a 2-day convention of the National Philatelic society.

Plans for the annual outing of the Appleton Maennerchor to be held at Erk park Sunday were being made. Herman Schlaflhauser was chairman.

Howard D. Crosby was elected treasurer of the Fraternal Order of Eagles the previous night. A by-law committee composed of Ed Tornow, William Koehnke, and Charles Freiburg was appointed.

A Verse for Today.

THE BIRDS ARE QUIETER

The birds are quieter with the advance of summer on our maple-bordered street. In mating time, they warbled of romance. At dawn we awakened to their music's beat.

But as the shadow of the autumn falls Across the world, their melody grows less, And when the evening comes a brown bird calls In a low murmur, rich with happiness.

As our brief summer goes, and we behold The autumn skies grow red, our songs will ring Less frequently. But as the years are told There will be deeper meaning when we sing.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese generalissimo is using a propaganda trick that Washington officials are watching closely and considering for possible use in South America.

Chiang uses loudspeakers to broadcast his propaganda. Reports here say it is tremendously effective. It is hard for the Japanese to stop.

As ordinary radio will do in a pinch. It is turned in on one of General Chiang's broadcast and, with the volume up, it can reach dozens of Chinese who otherwise never would hear a word of what is going on except through the Japanese. Chiang broadcasts in 18 dialects during the day, urging Chinese unity. It is his only way of reaching his people. Probably not one in ten thousand owns a radio.

In Latin America a similar situation exists. It is estimated there are 24 million receiving sets in Latin America. Only a fraction of those are all-wave sets capable of receiving short-wave broadcasts from the United States, Germany, or Italy.

There is a Catch. More over, it is likely that the bulk of those all-wave sets are owned in the big social brackets. That means that foreign broadcasts likely reach only a restricted list.

But a different situation would develop if a few shops were induced to face their radios out into the streets where up-country natives, in for the market, might listen to what is going on in the world as related by foreign broadcasters.

Officials looking into the idea to recognize difficulties. It is hard to persuade Brazilians or Bolivians that they will be benefited by having their citizens enlightened by foreign broadcasts. The expectation is, however, that the American broadcasts will be so objective and straightforward in presenting news and other matter that no real objection can be found.

As an idea it has one notable drawback. The same loudspeaker that would broadcast Yankee messages of good will also could be used by Hitler.

That FCC Order

Also you may just as well know that the state department was as much upset as the broadcasting companies over that order of the Federal Communications Commission directing the big radio systems to reflect only their true American culture in their foreign programs.

For months the state department has been working quietly with the radio companies to design programs that would reflect American culture and help promote the good neighbor policy in Latin America about it, but it was operating very well. Being so didn't interfere with the revenue from the foreign broadcasts. Not a handful of revenues comes from these short-wave broadcasts.

But just as the thing was working along at its smoothest the communications commission, long at odds within itself, tried to make official by a formal order. The commission was compelled to repeal it later. The state department had to be its very smoothest to restore the old accord with the broadcasting system.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Did you notice that, at the very moment Germany was jubilantly celebrating the importance of a new treaty she had signed in Danzig proclaiming that her old enemies didn't amount to anything? It makes one dizzy trying to follow those things.

With Von Ribbentrop off to Moscow to sign another pact, a big staff of Nazi lawyers was repudiating the German signature to pacts making Danzig a free city, scrapping the treaty of Versailles again and declaring all clauses on Danzig null and void.

When there is any difficulty about repudiating pledges, Hitler has a new technique. He calls in a bunch of his own lawyers to hold a meeting, go over the papers and declare the pledge was illegal in the first place. Can you imagine those German lawyers ruling that a pact was executed in good faith and binding on both parties, including Adolf?

During this lawyers' meeting in Danzig, Arthur Greiser, president of the Danzig senate, set and applauded every ruling. He was really cheering a decision making him the illegal head of a bogus government. Of course, the lawyers had him surrounded. But it's still the picture of the month.

Moscow says a pact with Germany in no way bars a pact between Russia and England. Say, is Stalin signing treaties or just collecting signatures?

Rain Insurance to Be Carried on Fair

Chilton—At a meeting of the fair directors Tuesday evening it was decided to carry rain insurance for the coming Calumet county fair, Sept. 1, 2, 3 and 4. This is a provision to defray expenses in case the rain should chase away the visitors. It is based on one-tenth of an inch of rainfall falling between the hours of 11 o'clock in the morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon. This is the first time in many years that the directors of the fair have seen fit to insure against rain.

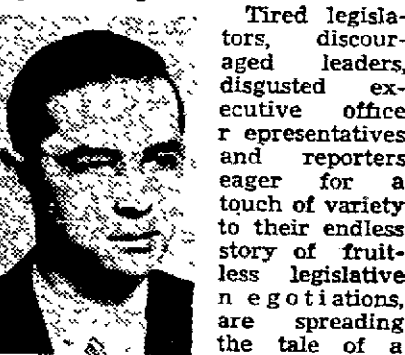

The first turkeys were taken to Europe from America by Spaniards in 1498.

Under the Capitol Dome

journalism and a summons later this fall for an extraordinary session at which necessary work can be completed.

The story has some plausibility, although it does not seem that any decisions have yet been made. Events of the week have shown that Wisconsin will be treated to one of the longest—if not actually the longest—legislative sessions on record, or another special session which may rival the 1937 special session for historic interest and importance.

LOGGERHEADS

There can no longer be any doubt that the legislature is at loggerheads on the vital question of a revenue program. Daily more legislators are taking the view that further efforts are hopeless until attitudes are changed, and concessions and compromises can be worked out.

From all the evidence available today, it was clear that whatever the senate does on a tax bill the assembly will undo, just as the senate undid in a hurry what the assembly had accomplished on the earlier tax bill. Then there was the fact that there is only a slight glimmer of hope that the senate will accomplish anything at all. Meanwhile in the executive office there are frowning faces, and tempers are proaching the breaking point. How much longer it will last is a big question in the statehouse today.

Some weeks ago this column predicted rather boldly that the Heil program would resolve into a sales tax or no tax program at all. That was based on current tax bills in the legislature which were floundering around without enough defenders to make a respectable showing. Since that time the tax bill has changed, but the prospects are no better. Perhaps the prospects are even poorer.

It is a complicated, pessimistic, and not very interesting situation. The executive office—not to mention the prospective taxpayers—can't be sure from day to day what the tax program contains, so rapidly do the legislators vacillate. Where it will all end is anybody's guess. This column believes in caution from now on.

AGE AND CANDIDACY

From one who knows Lieutenant Governor Goodland very well comes a strong hint that his 76 years should not be regarded as an insuperable obstacle to a campaign for higher office—say the governorship—next year.

Goodland's speech two weeks ago is reported to have produced a substantial volume of complimentary letters. They have encouraged, or inspired his thoughts, along the lines of his potential availability next year, it is said.

He is reported to expect Gov. Heil to run for the senate next year. That of course would leave the field open to him.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

NATURAL AND BALANCED

According to an item in a current popular magazine one of the fifty thousand doctors in the country who would rather write than practice has lately enunciated, in a paper read before a scientific association, a principle which I have many times set forth, namely, that if your diet is "well balanced" you will be satisfied with a smaller total intake of food.

Just what "well balanced" diet means, as we understand it today, is not only fair proportions of protein, fat and carbohydrate material but also adequate proportions of mineral salts and the essential vitamins. This was not made clear in the magazine interpretation of the doctor's essay. Rather, the imbalance was ascribed to the fact that "people who can afford to eat well eat unwisely, taking enormous quantities of oils, sugars and refined starches into their over-worked digestive engines."

It is my belief that the imbalance lies not so much in such overindulgence in delectables as in the poverty of such items in minerals and vitamins—which are removed or destroyed by the refining, preserving and cooking processes such foods undergo before they come to the table.

This concept is strengthened by the observation that people who have long been accustomed to eating too heartily of the refined sugars and starches or dishes made of them, commonly experience a noticeable decrease in their desire and capacity for such surplus food within a month or two after they begin supplementing their daily diet with adequate ratios of the essential vitamins. So it is logical to assume that this desire and capacity for excessive amounts of refined sugars and starches is due to an instinctive demand for minerals and vitamins, which leads one to eat more food—and the refined starches and sugars just happen to be plentiful, available, cheap and easy to eat.

The diminished "tone" of the stomach, from prolonged moderate deficiency of vitamin B, has been described earlier. It requires a greater quantity of food to fill a flabby stomach comfortably than it does to fill a normal stomach with good "tone."

Elsewhere I have called attention to the role vitamin B plays in carbohydrate (sugar and starch) metabolism or oxidation or utilization to produce muscular energy or warmth in the body. So marked is this action that an adequate daily intake of vitamin B in diabetes usually enables the patient to get along well or keep sugar-free with a smaller dosage of insulin. For this reason I have called vitamin B "poor man's insulin."

Naturally vitamin B occurs most richly in vegetable and fruits and whole grains—and these are most subject to refining, storing, preserving, cooking and other processes which remove or destroy vitamins.

Wheat Germ
Grateful if you will describe benefits of wheat germ, its special uses and how to use it (K.M.)

Answer—Richest natural food source of vitamin B-complex. Eat three or four ounces of it daily, straight as a cereal, mixed with other cereals, or incorporated in various recipes calling for flour, using wheat germ in place of half the flour. Buy it preferably from mill in small quantities, fresh every few weeks.

Party Leaders to Plan State-Wide Republican Meet

Outagamie County to be Represented at Wisconsin Rapids Session

Outagamie county Republican leaders are expected to attend a meeting of party leaders in the state at Wisconsin Rapids Friday, Sept. 1, to lay plans for a fall state convention. Appleton has made a formal bid for the convocation.

The call by Dr. F. L. Gullickson, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, is issued to members of the central committee, the state executive committee, the Young Republicans and women's organizations.

Dr. Gullickson planned the meeting to place before leaders the result of the organization program which has been in progress for several months and to have the various committees and organizations discuss plans for the next campaign through a representative state convention.

Bluff Doesn't Work On Traffic Officer, Trucker Pays $5 Fine

You can't bluff a police officer, especially if he is a member of the Outagamie county traffic squad. Edwin Franke, town of Ellington, tried it and as a result spent a night in the "clink" and paid a fine of $5 and costs. Franke was approached Saturday by a county traffic officer and questioned concerning insufficient lights. The officer didn't like the response, and wrote-out a summons ticket which he said Franke immediately tore up with a remark that he could get it "fixed." The officer took the trucker to the county jail and let him cool his heels until the following morning.

In municipal court this morning Franke pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of driving with insufficient lights and with one license plate. He was fined $5 and costs on each count by Judge Thomas H. Ryan, who committed one fine upon payment of the other and the costs in both actions.

Wisconsin Weather
Fair tonight and Friday, slightly cooler north central and north-east portion tonight, warmer Friday.

General Weather
Light to moderate showers have occurred during the last 24 hours over the lake region, upper Ohio and St. Lawrence valleys and over the west gulf coast, but generally fair weather prevails this morning over nearly all sections of the country.

Continued cool is general this morning over the upper lakes, upper Mississippi valleys and northern plain states but temperatures are rising over the central plain states and the northern and central Rocky mountains.

Fair weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours with rising temperatures Friday.

Isolation for U. S. Asked by Catholic Bishop of Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(P)—Declaring peace cannot be established by might, the Most Rev. Samuel A. Strich, Catholic archbishop of Milwaukee, asserted yesterday "it is time that people turned to God for an answer."

Addressing a committee planning an hour of prayer Sept. 10 for world peace, Archbishop Strich said: "We want peace for our country and we do not want to get mixed up in the international politics of other countries. We want isolation for the United States, for we are not experienced in the chancelleries of Europe and their manipulations, that involve ancient hatreds and so far have brought only misery."

Roosevelt Urges Italian Monarch To Act for Peace in nations interested in the European crisis, but no copy was being sent directly to the German government.

In his message to the king, the president declared that "again a crisis in world affairs makes clear the responsibility of heads of nations for the fate of their own people and indeed of humanity itself."

"It is because of traditional accord between Italy and the United States and the ties of consanguinity between millions of our citizens," he continued, "that I feel that I can address your majesty in behalf of the maintenance of world peace."

As President Roosevelt sped back to the capital, a high official said today the only step left open for the United States in the European crisis was a reiteration of its desire for peace.

He said he saw "no way out" of the situation, which might come to a head at any time. This was reported reliably to be the tenor of the information which Secretary of State Hull and Undersecretary Welles had for the president on his return from a north Atlantic cruise this afternoon.

May Make Statement
Whether the president might issue a statement of the administration's views or call congress into special session was a subject of much conjecture here.

A high official ruled out the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt's calling a conference in an effort to dissolve the European tension, and declared the United States could only repeat its earnest desire for peace and its willingness to cooperate in the economic moves that might be required to make peace possible.

This does not mean President Roosevelt will address another appeal for peace to Hitler. Having made three such appeals in less than a year, officials do not believe he would risk another direct appeal to the German chancellor.

Meetings of high government officials continued to lay the basis for a series of actions to be taken immediately if war breaks out, so as to cushion its effects in the United States.

Three such meetings were held yesterday in the state and treasury departments. These were of sub-committees appointed to study specific questions such as finance, economics, aviation, and evacuation of Americans. A general meeting was called for this afternoon in the office of Undersecretary Welles.

ASK NEUTRAL PLEASES

Brussels—(P)—The hope King Leopold's forceful appeal for peace would inspire similar expressions by President Roosevelt, and other heads of neutral nations was voiced by palace sources in Brussels today.

It was indicated here there was no expectation the Belgian monarch's stirring call would result in any direct expressions from the heads of either the British-French or the German-Italian group of nations.

The king, urging the antagonistic powers to enter "open negotiations" of their differences, frankly expressed hope heads of other nations would take up his appeal.

Sources close to the throne said the king's address climaxing the seven little powers' conference was in no way intended to make Brussels the "Munich of 1939."

Leopold's appeal was broadcast last night from an upper chamber of the palace in the presence of the foreign ministers of the Oslo group of nations.

Following the dinner the king addressed his guests extemporaneously and thanked the ministers for assembling so hurriedly at Brussels. The delegates started back to their capitals immediately to resume their study of the fast moving European developments.

Zurich, Switzerland—(P)—The thirty-third annual International Peace Congress, appealed today to President Roosevelt to immediately intervene in the European crisis to

City Swimming Pool Could Be Built on Miller Land

(This is the fourth of several articles discussing the sites that have been suggested for a municipal swimming pool, if one ever is built in Appleton. No attempt will be made to compare one with another or to suggest that one might be better than another. Information concerning assessments, location, property assessments, distances, sewer connections, etc., as will enable them to form conclusions as to the more desirable places.)

The Miller property at the northwest corner of Superior and Lawrence streets has been suggested as a possible site for a municipal swimming pool.

The area south of the buildings on College avenue would be large enough provided the alley owned by the city, 20 feet wide, and part of the College avenue business lots were utilized. The Miller property is 144 feet by 160 feet while some 60 feet of land along the east to west property line might be purchased to add to the area.

The property, owned by Mrs. Pauline Miller, is assessed at $7,100, the city property probably would be donated and it is only a matter of speculation how much the various property holders would ask for the south portions of their lots.

The property is only about 1,000 feet from the heart of the city, the Conway hotel which is considered the geographical center of Appleton. The land probably is about 200 feet from the Fox river which would make it comparatively easy to pull water from the river. If river water were used for the pool, the parking problem would be a major one if the pool were built on the Miller property. Only a block off College avenue, Lawrence and Superior streets already are overcrowded and carry a heavy load of traffic.

The property is only a few hundred feet from residences on Lawrence street and abuts one residence and part of the St. Joseph parish property. The monastery would overlook a pool on the Miller land. Fill including tin cans and rubbish of all kinds has been dumped into the ravine which at one time was about 40 feet deep. Authorities say the property would not hold up a building or any structure of any weight for at least 20 years because of the settling.

A 42-inch sewer cuts diagonally across the land canceling any drainage problems because of a swimming pool.

The weatherman said today that fair weather is in prospect for Appleton and vicinity.

Skies will be clear tonight—but temperatures cool—and tomorrow should bring sunshine and warmth.

For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest temperature in the city was 73 degrees, registered at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company.

The minimum during that period was 57 at 8 o'clock this morning.

At 1 o'clock this morning, a thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building stood at 72 degrees. White and dark clouds intermingled in the sky and the sun occasionally broke through.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 103, and Bismarck, N. D., with 41, were the hottest and coldest places respectively in the nation yesterday.

Report Germany Is Occupying Forts on Belgian Frontier

Brussels—(P)—Long lines of German military trucks were reported today by border observers to be moving within sight of the Belgian town of Eupen, former German territory.

German fortifications facing the Belgian border were reported to be hurriedly being occupied during the night. Numerous artillery pieces were seen being drawn into place.

CROSS POLISH BORDER

Warsaw—(P)—Well-informed circles reported today that a German patrol crossed the Polish border this morning and occupied an estate about three-quarters of a mile within Polish territory near Ilawa.

obtain a truce, enabling him to call an international conference.

Paris—(P)—French sources viewed President Roosevelt's peace initiative with considerable sympathy but little hope for its success.

The situation, they said, was too grave for the king of Italy, even backed by so strong an appeal as that of the American president, to do much good.

'Imminent Peril Of War,' Stressed By Chamberlain

can foresee, we shall not be fighting for the political future of a faraway state in a foreign land.

"We shall be fighting for the preservation of those principles, the destruction of which would involve the destruction of all possibility of peace and security for the peoples of the world. I trust those with whom the responsibility lies will remember the millions of mankind whose fate depends on their actions," said Chamberlain.

The prime minister's speech, delivered in solemn tones and with obvious emotion, recalled to many members of parliament the similarly grave speech of Lord Grey, British foreign secretary, on the eve of the outbreak of the World war in 1914.

It was reminiscent also of the speech which Chamberlain himself delivered Sept. 28 last year and under strangely similar circumstances at the height of the crisis over Germany's demands on Czechoslovakia.

He spoke then, he received an invitation to the Munich conference which brought a settlement but was followed by the virtual absorption of Czechoslovakia by Germany.

Halifax Addresses Lords

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax made a similar statement in the house of lords.

"Throughout these days," he said, "we have been in close and constant contact with the French government, whose attitude is identical with our own."

He declared that the government's message to Hitler yesterday "made it plain that if the cause should arise the government were resolved and prepared to employ without delay all forces at their command."

The prime minister, who wrung his hands nervously and as usual fumbled with his spectacles, sat down after he had spoken 33 minutes.

The diplomatic and other galleries were crowded. American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy was among the many diplomats. Notably missing, however, was one usually regular attendant—Soviet Russian Ambassador Ivan Maisky.

Asks Broad Powers

Chamberlain made his statement as he asked parliament to give the government "virtually dictatorial powers to deal with the international situation."

"New and drastic steps are required by the gravity of the situation," the prime minister said.

The prime minister's proposals were embodied in a brief but sweeping "emergency powers bill," which was introduced at the opening of parliament's emergency session.

The measure would give the government power to put into operation immediately any measures considered necessary for the national safety.

These would include such steps as:

1. Taking over railways and other means of transport.
2. Control of food supplies.
3. Defense against air attack.

"The international situation has steadily deteriorated until today we find ourselves confronted with an imminent peril of war," Chamberlain declared to a crowded house which cheered him as he entered.

Germany is now in a condition of complete readiness for war," he asserted, reviewing the events leading up to the present situation.

Praises Poland

Poland, he said, has shown "great calm and self-restraint."

"Poland," he continued, "has always been and is ready now to discuss her differences with the German government if they could be carried on without threats of force or violence and with some confidence."

Then, turning to the new German-Russian non-aggression pact, Chamberlain said British-French-Russian military discussions were going well "when this bombshell came."

The announcement of the pact came as a "complete surprise to the British government," he said.

The Russian government, he continued, while carrying on discussions with Britain and France had been secretly negotiating with Germany for purposes "which on the face of it were inconsistent with the objects of their foreign policy as we understood it."

The house cheered this statement.

Will Back War This

Turning back to Poland, the prime minister said that at the beginning of this week German troops began moving toward the Polish frontier. Then he said:

"The government's first duty is to declare that British obligations to Poland remain unaffected."

He was replying to Britain's pledge to aid Poland if her independence were threatened.

"I wish emphatically to repudiate any suggestion that our defensive measures imply an act of menace," Chamberlain asserted. "Nothing we have done or propose to do menaces the legitimate interests of Germany."

"It is not an act of menace to prepare to help friends defend themselves."

Trades and Labor Council 3-Day Picnic Will Feature Fireworks, Parade, Talk by Sen. LaFollette

The 3-day Labor day picnic of the Appleton Trades and Labor council will boast three major features—a parade, an address by Senator Robert M. LaFollette and a fireworks display predicted to be the largest in the history of celebrations in the city.

The parade will begin at 9:15 Monday morning, Sept. 4, and will proceed from Drew street west on College avenue to Memorial drive, south on Memorial drive to Prospect avenue and then west on the avenue to Pierce park.

Rivalry between the Tuttle Press and Wire Weavers unions in showing the best float is heightening interest in the parade. Reports this

Illness Fatal to Mrs. George Mead

Wife of Paper Company President Dies at Wisconsin Rapids

Mrs. George W. Mead, wife of the president of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company, died today at Wisconsin Rapids.

Mrs. Mead died at her home on Belle Isle in the Wisconsin river after a long illness. She was 63 years old.

Born in Wisconsin Rapids, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Witter. She was active in the D.A.R. and P.E.O. Sisterhood and was a leader in the city's civic and charitable work.

The Meads were married in Rockford, Ill., in 1899 and came to Wisconsin Rapids in 1902. Mead retains banking interests in Rockford.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry Baldwin, Wisconsin Rapids; two sons, Stanton W., Wisconsin Rapids; and Walter L., Chicago; one brother, Isaac P. Witter, who is in the banking business at Wisconsin Rapids.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Congregational church in Wisconsin Rapids, with burial in that city.

DEATHS

WESLEY H. SHERMAN
Wesley H. Sherman, 77, died unexpectedly about 6 o'clock last night at his home in Seymour. He had been in ill health less than two weeks.

Born at Belleville, Ont., Canada, he came to the town of Osborn with his parents when seven years old. He lived in the town of Osborn until his retirement 13 years ago.

Survivors are the widow; one daughter, Miss Warrine Sherman; Seymour; two sons, Emory, Fond du Lac; Hubert, Menasha; two sisters, Mrs. John Dettwiller, Coopers-town, N. D.; Mrs. Alec McKeechie, Superior; two brothers, Wilcox, Seymour; Willard, Rhinelander; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at the Mueli Funeral home, Seymour, and at 2 o'clock at the Seymour Methodist church. The Rev. Lorenz Knutson, Milford Junction, will be in charge, and burial will be in the Seymour City cemetery.

Beaver Dam Woman to Head State Group in Cancer Control Work

Horicon—(P)—Announcement was made here today of the appointment of Mrs. G. E. Stoddard, of Beaver Dam, as commander of the Wisconsin unit of the Women's field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Mrs. Stoddard, who served during the last war as state adjutant, was appointed by Marjorie B. Illig, national commander of the army. She succeeds Mrs. F. H. Clausen of Horicon, state commander since the army's organization in 1936.

Mrs. Clausen will serve as honorary commander of the Wisconsin unit.

Can't Blame a Man For Lurking Around At a Time Like This

Chicago—(P)—As if Arnold Baltzeren didn't have enough trouble without a lot of fellow policemen butting in.

Officers sped to St. Francis hospital in suburban Evanston on a report a man was lurking on the grounds. They seized Baltzeren.

Nervous and worn, Baltzeren identified himself as an Evanston policeman and explained he had been pacing the hospital halls for several hours and merely walked outside to see if he could spot the stork in the sky. He was just waiting and waiting, not lurking, he said.

Meanwhile, his wife, Adelene, gave birth to a nine pound boy.

Hannan to Attend Meeting in Berne

Former State Board Head Is Named American Representative

Madison—(P)—Colonel John J. Hannan, former president of the state board of control, has been appointed observer for the U. S. department at a meeting of the international penal and penitentiary commission in Berne, Switzerland, September 18 and 19.

President Roosevelt approved the appointment on recommendation of Secretary Cordell Hull. Col. Hannan had the endorsement of Sanford Bates, for many years the United States representative on the commission, who now has charge of the boys club work of the United States.

Col. Hannan headed the administration of Wisconsin's penal and correctional institutions and its parole and probation services for 14 years. He said he planned to visit Ireland, England, Italy, France and possibly Germany before the Berne meeting. It will be his first trip abroad.

Stores Will Resume 5:30 Closing Sept. 1

Stores in Appleton will begin closing at 5:30 in the afternoon instead of 5 o'clock on Sept. 1, it was decided at a meeting of the retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce yesterday. The stores have been on the summer closing schedule since June 1.

Two Cars are Stolen And One Is Recovered

Two cars, one in Appleton and one in Kimberly, were reported stolen last night and one was recovered. A car owned by Albert Vandenberg, De Pere, was stolen about 9:30 and recovered about 11:30 in a ditch near Kimberly. A 1936 Buick sedan owned by J. Martin Van Rooy, 1108 W. Winnebago street, was stolen from an alley on W. Washington street about 11:15 last night. The car license is 31-390.

Illegal Operation Is Termined Cause of Death

Minneapolis—(P)—A 21-year-old Cornell, Wis. woman died in General hospital here yesterday of what the coroner said was an illegal operation.

A man, 46-years-old, and another man, 42, were booked for arraignment today on charges of performing the operation, but the county attorney's office later said the case would go to the grand jury.

Pleads Not Guilty of Driving Recklessly

Gerald Meyer, 18, Crooks avenue, Kaukauna, pleaded not guilty of reckless driving when he appeared before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Trial was set for 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 30. County police made the arrest.

Junior Fair Cattle To be Shipped Friday

A herd of 15 cattle, selected by a committee headed by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agent, will be shipped Friday to the Junior State fair at Milwaukee. Lack of room at the state fair was responsible for the postponement of junior fair cattle shipments from throughout the state.

Milwaukee Day May Boost State Fair Attendance

Despite Showers, Nearly 76,000 Pushed Turnstiles Yesterday

Milwaukee—(P)—State fair officials, cheered by a sudden spurt in attendance and forecasts of continued clear weather, looked to today's elaborate Milwaukee day program to further wipe out an attendance deficit caused by four days of rain.

Nearly 76,400 persons passed through the turnstiles yesterday, in spite of a shower, compared to 70,114 for the same day last year. The figure brought the five-day total to 306,666, nearly 25,000 less than in 1938.

Governor Julius H. K. and a group of state legislators visited the exposition yesterday. The executive, addressing a grandstand audience of about 20,000 urged "city folks" to cooperate more, closely with the farmers.

"If the farmer is not prosperous the great plants which produce what the farmer needs will not be prosperous," H. said. "For instance, city folks should drink more milk. That request is not a joke or idle gesture."

So Young Democrats Better Look Out for the Old Ones

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—If there is anything left in this world that is beautiful and fine, it is the youth of the human race, and of all the fresh and tender blooms of humankind that toss their pretty heads in the greasy dump that the elders have made of God's creation American youth is fairest and most intolerant of sham. So when the young Democrats hold a convention to pledge themselves to progress, which is synonymous with the New Deal, and that clear-eyed young idealist Senator Joseph E. Guffey of Pennsylvania leaps up to fling his boyish challenge to the forces of reaction despair gives way to joyous confidence in the future.

Senator Guffey, who addressed his fellow-youths in Pittsburgh, is an adolescent of 64 years, with only 30 years or so of machine politics and oil speculation behind him, and, although inexperience might trick him into small errors of political strategy, one may feel confident that sordid motives are not his. He is just a boy, sprung from the platform to inspire other boys and girls, a lean, lithe figure of youth, selfless in his devotion to his ideals, contemptuous of personal ambition and profit and happily free of the contamination which often comes from long experience in the evil practices and contact with the low political morals of old-style politicians.

Equally inspiring is the presence, among the young Democrats, as a leader and personification of ideals, of the Hon. Ed Kelly, the 63-year-old boy mayor of Chicago, whose career runs roughly parallel to that of young Guffey. The Kelly boy, too, comes to political life with no experience in the deplorable traditions and practices of machine, or gang politics, unless you insist on counting some 35 years in Chicago Democratic party life, which is hardly to be called politics in the ordinary sense, because the Chicago democracy has always been noted for its purity of motive and its scorn for evil, particularly graft. All Fresh, Unscarred Warriors Of Old Ideals

He presented himself as a young Democrat innocent of old commitments and associations of the kind

Engineer to Prepare Lagoon Contour Map

A contour map of the lagoon off Lutz park will be prepared by Alfred Wickesberg, city engineer, showing the various depths and the kind of bottom in the lagoon.

Wickesberg said today the C. R. Meyer company, Oshkosh, expects to complete the dredging of the lagoon today. Cost of the work will be about $700.

The map to be prepared by the engineer also will show proposed diving boards, piers and life lines which eventually will be installed for bathing purposes.

Robert V. McNutt, a kid of 49; Robert Jackson, a squirt but a few months younger, and Aubrey Williams, a professional youth of long experience at the age of half a century, come storming at councils of government to take it over and make it over in the name of a generation which serves warning that it will not abandon its heritage or lose its soul. They are serious, determined youth, these pink-faced boys, and with their leadership and counsel, the young Democrats can be relied upon to destroy many evils of the old traditions—particularly, it may be hoped, the corrosive practice of using public money to reduce the under-privileged to a status in which they may be warned to keep their friends in power—or else.

Average Age Of 50

Seems Terribly Young

Just one thought of caution occurs in the contemplation of this exciting outburst of the youthful spirit in the Democratic party. It may be an injustice to the fine intelligence and unflinching idealism of the Messrs. Guffey, Kelly, Barkley, McNutt, Jackson and Williams to mention it, but nevertheless there is a danger that some evil elders in the party will attempt to move into the councils of the young Democrats and manipulate and exploit them for mere political purposes. The older men are wily operators, and they will be sure to offer their services and their party influence to the leaders of Democratic youth in return for political support. They will tempt youth with immediate results, such as jobs, contracts and power in the old, sordid meaning of the word, and there is just an outside chance that some inexperienced boys in the new movement will compromise with their principles under pressure.

They are fine, clean-cut boys; the Messrs. Guffey, Kelly, Barkley, McNutt, Jackson and Williams, but their average age is only 50, which seems terribly young after all. I understand Senator Guffey still speaks with a lisp.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with burning and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

the WORLD of STAMPS

As Poland musters all its armed forces to answer a possible challenge to its independence, the government has issued a souvenir sheet to recall the troops that helped originally to win its independence. Specifically, the sheet marks the 25th anniversary of the forming of the Polish legion.

Before the World War most of present-day Poland was a part of Czarist Russia. Some of the bloodiest battles of the war were fought on her soil between Russia and the Central Powers. In 1914, fiery Marshal Pilsudski formed a Polish legion to fight for independence.

It fought with Russia, Austria and finally France—depending on where it could do the most good for freedom. At the war's close its efforts were rewarded.

The sheet consists of a 25-groszy red-violet showing a statue of Pilsudski circled by legionnaires; a 25-gr. black profile portrait of the fiery Pilsudski (A64 in Scott's catalogue); and a 25-gr. slate portrait of Marshal Smigly-Rydz (A80 in the catalogue), who heads the present Polish army.

Change In Style

When the 1940 edition of Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue appears Sept. 25, collectors will note a change of make-up, adopted to save space because of the profusion of new issues.

All regular postage stamps will be designated by the capital letter "A" with a numeral; Semi-postals "B"; registration issues "C"; insurance "G"; postage dues "J"; locals "L"; military post "M"; occupation issues "N"; officials "O"; newspaper issues "P"; parcel post "Q"; revenues "R"; telegraph "T" and other stamped paper "U."

Incidentally, the number of new faces scheduled to appear is 109 to bring to a grand total of 1,563 the number of persons who have been depicted during philately's history.

The Soviet Union will issue

Old Sewer Jobs Under WPA are Discontinued

Mayor Goodland was informed by the Green Bay WPA office that the WPA sewer project under which Czarist regime. The author, Saltykov-Schedrin, is a stranger to most non-Russians but enjoys an excellent reputation with the Soviets.

Russians say the reason he is unknown to outsiders is that he wrote in a rich Russian vernacular which proved awkward to translate. And one reason why Soviets like him so much is that he was constantly taking satirical digs at his Czarist rulers.

The stamps, issued on the 50th anniversary of his death, are in two designs and four values. The 15 and 45-kopec stamps show him as a young author; the 30 and 60k show him just before his death.

the city was operating until recently, has been discontinued. The Green Bay office said all projects for sewers granted during 1938 and 1939 have been discontinued by order of federal authorities. The city engineer is framing a new project to be submitted to WPA.

Miss Janet Gillingham of Neenah Is Guest of Honor at Pre-Nuptial Luncheon Party

MISS Janet Gillingham, Neenah, who will be married this fall to Byron T. Hoffmann, Menasha, was guest of honor at a bridge-luncheon yesterday given by Mrs. John P. Ash, 1024 N. Leminaw street. The Misses Nina and Mary Krueger, Neenah, received prizes for bridge and Miss Gillingham was given a guest prize. Others present were Mrs. Douglas V. Johnson who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ingold; Mrs. Marjorie Freund, Washington, D. C., who is spending a vacation with her parents in Seymour; Miss Helen Fox, Oshkosh; Mrs. Jeanne McAllister, Mrs. Daniel P. Steinberg, Jr., and Miss Yvonne Callin.

Mrs. Herman Trentlage and Mrs. A. Warner were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower last night at the former's home, 1002 N. Oneida street, for Miss Mary Lou Delrow who will be married Sept. 3 to C. Francis Bremmer. Forty-five guests were present including from out-of-town: Mrs. Elmer Purath, Green Bay; Mrs. Melvin Self, Kaukauna; Mrs. Grace Pugh, Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Gladys Bocklin, Winchester; and Mrs. Clarence Trentlage, Neenah. Roy Harriman and Mrs. Olga Meidman won prizes at games and a mock wedding was staged with Mrs. Clarence Trentlage acting as minister, Miss Dorothy Delrow as bride, Mrs. Purath as bridesmaid, Miss Bocklin as best man and Donald Kuester as ring bearer.

Mrs. Bertha Rafoth and Mrs. Ralph Moore, 521 N. Mary street, entertained 30 guests at a miscellaneous shower Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Viola Woldt who will be married Sept. 16 to Edward Euseper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Euseper, Brillion. The ceremony will take place at St. Paul Lutheran church.

Mrs. Mary Holzer and Miss Grace Vogt received the prizes for schafkopf and Miss Eleanor Houfek and Miss Loretta Kressin for court whist. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Emil Euseper, Brillion, and Mrs. William Althoff, Beaver Dam.

Mrs. S. J. Danielson and her daughters Ellen, Marion and Inga, entertained at a pre-nuptial shower at their home in Waupaca Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Martha Sorenson of Ogdensburg. The evening was spent in embroidering designs on dish towels and in playing games appropriate to the occasion. Fortunes were told while the buffet lunch was being served.

Mrs. Sorenson will leave Sept. 1 for Forest Grove, Ore., where her marriage to J. Reid Greenwood will take place later in the month. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sorenson, Ogdensburg, and has spent the last five years teaching in Grand Forks, N. D.

Mrs. Gordon Larson and Miss Clara Osborne entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Larson in Waupaca in honor of Miss Oleine Meier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Meier, who will be married in the fall to Allan Cleaves, Manitowish. After a shower of gifts for the bride-to-be, two tables of bridge were in play, honors going to Mrs. Charles Nelson and Miss Eunice Bucknell. The floating prize was awarded to Mrs. John Angell. Other guests were Mrs. George Haebig, Mrs. Edward Johnson, Mrs. Dwight Hensel and Miss Dagmar Nelson.

Members of the Royal Neighbor lodge and other friends from Shiocton honored Miss Ethel Cordy at a miscellaneous shower at the Odd Fellows hall at Shiocton Tuesday evening. Miss Cordy's marriage to Ervin Kolwitz of Shiocton will take place this month.

Cards were played and prizes at schafkopf won by Mrs. Howard Palmer, Shiocton, and Mrs. Earl Frappay, New London, and at schmeer by Mrs. Earl Feustel, Shiocton, and Mrs. Ray Cordy, Hortonville. Guests included Mrs. Joseph Probst, Bear Creek; Mrs. Ted Ebberts, Mrs. Earl Ebberts, Mrs. George Brigham and Mrs. Earl Frappay, New London; Mrs. Ray Cordy, Hortonville; Mrs. Albert Schwandt, Mrs. Kenneth Andrews, Mrs. Rudolph Schwandt, Mrs. Ed Callan, Miss Erma Gunderson, Mrs. Earl Kuester, Mrs. Monroe Manley, Mrs. Howard Palmer, Mrs. Earl Feustel, Mrs. Phil Palmer, Mrs. Frank Shepherdson, Mrs. Tunis Booth, Mrs. John McGinn, Mrs. Allan Gunderson, Mrs. Desmond Steede, Mrs. Leo Kling, Mrs. Eugene Feuerpfeil, Mrs. Harland Laird, Mr. Harold McGinn, Mrs. Milo Thompson, Mrs. Wallace Schoepke, Mrs. Anna Ziebell, Miss Viola Ziebell, Mrs. Harvey Pooler and Mrs. Rudolph Locke, Shiocton.

Roy Marston, Jr., to Marry Akron Girl

Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Ruth Marion Bazley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bazley, Akron, Ohio, to Roy Hilton Marston, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Marston, 838 E. College avenue, was made at a party this week in Akron.

Miss Bazley has many friends in Appleton as she was the guest of her fiancé and his parents earlier in August and was entertained extensively during her visit.

After taking her preparatory work at the Old Trail school in Fairview, Ohio, Miss Bazley attended Akron university for three years. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Mr. Marston, a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, was graduated from Lawrence college in 1933 where he was a track star and prominent in campus activities. For the last three years he has been associated with the Binney and Smith company in Akron.

Maennerchor Will Sponsor Outing in Pierce Park Sunday

Appleton Maennerchor will sponsor a picnic next Sunday in the west end of Pierce park beginning at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and continuing throughout the afternoon and evening. There will be various kinds of entertainment, and the public has been invited to attend. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Alois Zaglauer, Ed Baumann, Jacob Hopfgartner and Wilhelm Schmalz.

Forty women were present at the picnic for Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles Wednesday afternoon at Alicia park. Following a picnic luncheon the women played cards, and prizes were won at schafkopf by Mrs. Ed Boldt, Mrs. William Fisher and Mrs. Frank Gosh, and at dice by Mrs. Al Reckner and Mrs. Andrew Dorn. The committee included Mrs. Andrew Schiltz, Mrs. William Fisher, Mrs. Al Reckner and Mrs. John Hancock.

Members of the Rainbow Division auxiliary and their families will gather at the Paul Wilke cottage at Island beach near Oshkosh next Sunday for a picnic. The group will leave the Edward Lutz home at 1014 S. Oneida street, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, arriving at the cottage in time for a pot-luck dinner and an afternoon of swimming and other entertainment. The auxiliary will have a short business meeting after the dinner.

Mary Alsted In Finals of Club Tourney

MISS MARY ALSTED, River-view Country club women's golf champion of last year, defeated Mrs. Dan Courtney 3 up and 1 in the semi-finals of the club tournament, their match being played this morning. Miss Alsted will play Miss Betty Buchanan for the championship.

In Class A, Mrs. William A. Daniel of Neenah defeated Mrs. John Ruhlberg 1 up earlier this week. Mrs. Daniel will play the winner of the match between Miss Lola Mae Zuelke and Mrs. Thomas N. Barrows.

Mrs. E. H. Foulk, Oshkosh, and Mrs. W. H. Cartwright, Appleton, were low net partners in the ladies day golf event yesterday at Butte des Morts Golf club. Mrs. Richard F. Dunger won the prize for low putts on the last nine holes. Between 30 and 35 women played golf. Following the luncheon bridge was played, prizes going to Mrs. James Balliet and Mrs. Lawrence Koepke, first for east and west, and Mrs. Burton Manser and Mrs. Ed Schrage, second; and to Mrs. J. J. Plank and Mrs. Robert L. Rechner, first for north and south, and Mrs. Norman Brown and Mrs. George Theiss, second.

Hostesses for yesterday were Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow, chairman; Miss Zetta Mortell, Mrs. Henry Schmalz and Mrs. L. D. Costello, all of Menasha.

Announcement was made of an invitation tournament next Wednesday for women of the Calumet Country club of Chilton and the Little River club at Marinette. The committee for next week will include Mrs. Paul L. Hackbert, Mrs. L. J. Marshall, Mrs. E. V. Werner and Mrs. E. H. Harwood.

Mrs. Ed Massonette, W. Washington street, entertained the Friendly Nine club Wednesday night at her home. Mrs. John Branchford, Mrs. A. W. Hofmann and Mrs. Emil Schulze won prizes.

The usual buffet supper and contract bridge party will take place Friday night at Riverview Country club with Mr. and Mrs. Alden M. Johnston as host and hostess.

Committee Takes Bids For Garage Building

Sealed bids are being received by the county highway committee until 10 o'clock Monday morning for the erection of a garage building at Shiocton. The proposals are being received on the general contract which includes all branches of work except the heating, plumbing and electrical work.

M. Thompson won the bridge prize, Mrs. Rose Korte the prize at schafkopf and Mrs. Max Dittmer the dice award. Mrs. Howard Van Ooyen was chairman of the party.

Annual chicken dinner, supper, St. Mary's ch. Reeds-vill, Sun., Aug. 27. Amusements, games, refreshments. Everyone welcome!

GUESTS FROM ENGLAND HAVE TEA AT HEILIG HOME

Bowing to the custom of her guests' home country, Mrs. Herb Heilig, center above, has tea for Mr. and Mrs. Darlow W. Humphries of Frome, Somerset, and London, England, who are visitors this week at the Heilig home, 101 E. Kimball street. Since the Humphries have never seen tribal Indians, they are being taken Friday to Shawano and the Keshena reservation, and will have their first glimpse of American football when they go to Green Bay Friday night for an exhibition game between the Green Bay Packers and the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Heiligs will also take their English visitors to the Boy Scout camp at Gardner Dam. (Post-Crescent Photo)

College Girls Spending Last Few Days of Vacation Planning Wardrobes for New School Term

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN

It's just as important to look one's best for an 8 o'clock class as for a fraternity formal, college girls have learned, and consequently they are spending these last few weeks of vacation planning their fall wardrobes, shopping carefully and sensibly in order to make the very most of their clothing budget for school. After all, first impressions are made at classes, not at dances, they maintain, and it's usually through the lowly classroom that a girl makes friends and lays the groundwork for her social life on the campus.

Chronologically speaking, the very first appearance Betty Coed makes on the campus is her arrival from home, and consequently her traveling clothes must be right. Sport things, of course, are most practical since she will be wearing them to classes later, as well as to eagerly pledge meetings and football games. A tweedy rector coat over a smart wool dress in one of the new plaid designs, topped with a snappy felt hat, will get any girl an A plus on appearance her first day at college. Or she may prefer something more casual in the form of a pleated skirt and plaid or striped jacket, topped with a wide-brimmed hat, suits which are still holding a top spot in youthful fashions.

Reds, Greens, Plaids

The freshman girl who arrives at her botany class a few minutes late may be excused if she is wearing a smart light-weight wool in one of the new fall colors, Robin Hood red or green, or in a smart plaid. Something equally smart and just a little out of the ordinary is cotton velvet and corduroy which come in a variety of styles from youthful fitted jacket and skirt and lumberjack two-piece dress to the more dressy things with back fullness and lace trim.

Indispensable to any college girl is her sweater and skirt wardrobe with its studied simplicity. Sweaters come in cardigan and slipover styles and if the sleeves are long, of course you'll push them up to just below or just above the elbow. Shirt-waist dresses in feather-weight flannel will find favor with many. These come in plain colors, in plaid, or in material and in plaid. Incidentally, these can plaid dresses are taking the country by storm this fall, and if one doesn't care to indulge in an entire dress of such gaudy colors, a ribbon trimming down the front of a cardigan or a rib-length jacket over a dark skirt will do the trick nicely. Plaid revers on a navy blue housecoat will make your roommate green with envy.

Something for Dates

When shadows lengthen across the campus and the rush of classes, chapel, and laboratory periods is over for another day, dormitory and sorority house telephones jangle madly as Joe College gets his affairs for the evening straightened out. Phone calls mean dates, and dates mean something extra in the way of clothes. If a movie or a coke, at the campus soda fountain is on the docket, then one of the more casual velveteen, crepe or nubby weave dresses is adequate, but if the date's budget allows for dinner and a dance or two afterwards, then a more dressy number with "social significance" is indicated. Here is an opportunity to really dazzle your public with one of the new bustle-back gowns with softly draped bodice, or a simple dramatic black highlighted with a huge gold buckle at the waist or a gob of brilliance at the neckline. Hats will correspond, of course, casual being being the thing for sport wear, and merky pill-box styles in felt, velvet or fur, or smart postillion models for dressier occasions.

Comes Saturday night and a college dance or fraternity formal, and you'll want to lay on the glamour in the swankiest formal you can afford. If the "Big-Man-On-Campus" goes for appealing femininity, then one of the rustly taffetas with full-skirt accented with velvet bands or godets of draped and corded taffeta will win him completely. But if he is dazzled by the smooth, sophisticated type, your bid for his attention will be assured if you make a dramatic entrance in a boldly marked black or fuchsia moire trimmed with changeable taffeta at top and hem, or a severe black crepe with white chiffon cascading down the back, topped with a red, blue or green bolero.

Strapless Gowns

Strapless formal for the more daring come in taffeta or velvet, some of the more attractive models having contrasting ruching at the top and hemline, or a touch of danger-red peeking out from under a black ruffled hem. Back-interest is much in evidence in formals, some having button bows, give a bustle effect and others having gathers or pleats across the back. Pert little jackets transform many of the formals into dinner dresses. Occasionally a white or colored ruffled petticoat peeks from under a hemline in a provocative manner as Milady goes up the stairs or lifts her skirt while dancing. A sophisticated dinner gown which will make the rushest gown is a tailored model with long tight-fitting sleeves and high round neckline and which is worn untrimmed except for a shining gilt necklace. Snow white is just as fetching as black when it comes to dramatic effect in the evening, and white formals still continue to hold a high spot in popularity among college girls. White rayon satin brocade is charming when made with a very full skirt and worn with a button-down-the-front jacket. A daggerreotype effect is achieved in a black velvet gown with fitted bodice and crinoline skirt, and an off-the-shoulder neckline trimmed with Pointe de Venise lace.

Extremely practical is a sculptured rayon jersey blouse teamed with a street length skirt for tea-dances or dates, and with a long dinner skirt for weekend dates or dances.

Home from the dance, Betty Coed will slip into a smart housecoat for a few minutes' gossip with the roommates and a few intimate friends before dropping off to sleep.

Two Appleton Youths Leave On Trip West

THOMAS Blount, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Blount, 1223 N. Harrison street, and Richard Mullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mullen, route 3, Appleton, left this morning for a western trip which will last about a month. They took the northern route out, going first to the state of Washington, and they will visit the Golden Gate expedition in San Francisco and other points in California. They expect to return by the southern route.

Vesper Chamberlin has returned from Chicago where she attended the convention of the National Association of Dancing Masters. Next Saturday she will go to Wausau as drum major for the Elks band at the state Elks convention. While in St. Louis at the national Elks convention, she studied at the Fanchon and Marco school.

Street. Otto Buss, 409 W. Summer street, and Mrs. Russell Smith and son, Gerald, 908 N. Durkee street, returned home Wednesday after spending several days with relatives in Milwaukee.

Bringing with her Miss Violet Daviau, Waterville, Maine, who will be her house guest for the next month. Miss Ellen Balliet, 2 Brookway place, returned home today after spending the summer in the east. Miss Balliet and Miss Daviau, on their way from the east, traveled through Canada, stopping at Callendar to see the Dionne quintuplets and visiting with friends in Toronto. Miss Balliet, who continued work on her master's degree at Columbia university this summer, visited with friends in Boston, Mass., and spent some time in Maine before summer school opened. She stayed at the Maison Francaise in New York where French was spoken most of the time.

Miss Anne Holtz, 731 N. Mason street, and Miss Germaine Bastian, 1616 N. Oneida street, will leave Sept. 9 for a trip to the New York World's fair and a week's visit with Mrs. Clifton Zuehlke, Philadelphia, formerly of Appleton.

Miss Helen Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Clark, 226 Broad street, Menasha, arrived home today after spending the summer with relatives in Philadelphia, New York and New Jersey. She also attended the World's fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Zerber, Burlington, Iowa, who have been visit-

TEMPLE SPEAKER

The Rev. John Kolenda, above, until recently pastor of a church at East Lansing, Mich., will speak at 7:45 this evening and Friday evening at the Gospel temple and again at 10:45 Sunday morning and 7:45 Sunday evening. At 2:30 Sunday afternoon he will give an address in German. The Rev. Mr. Kolenda, who was raised in Brazil as the son of a missionary, will return to Brazil as a missionary soon.

Missionary to Be Methodist Guest Speaker

PROF Charles P. Culver, superintendent of the Christian Herald Industrial mission at Foochow, China, and brother of Dr. Harry C. Culver of First Methodist church, will be guest speaker Sunday morning in the local church.

He will speak on "China's Dark-est Hour" at the 10 o'clock service. At 7:30 Sunday evening he will give an address at the Neenah Methodist church on "The Crisis in China" and will show pictures of the bombing of Foochow.

This will be Professor Culver's second appearance in Appleton as he spoke in the local church last year. He is on furlough in the United States and his return to China is uncertain, because of the war there. He is making his temporary home in Oklahoma City, Okla., and travels around the country speaking of his work and experiences in China. He was formerly a chautauque entertainer, correspondent for the Associated Press and connected with the American consular service, and was at one time associate secretary of the International Reform bureau at Washington. He arrived in Appleton last night and will be the house guest of Dr. and Mrs.

ing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bailey, 402 E. Atlantic street, this week. They will leave for their home Friday. Mrs. Zerber is a sister of Mr. Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Engstrom, Chicago, arrived last night to be guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. H. F. Heller, 302 N. Rankin street, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Zerber, Burlington, Iowa, will leave Friday for her home after visiting a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bailey, 402 E. Atlantic street.

Results are startling because science has found a way to make a wonderful new suds, called Vel, that contains no alkali to fade colors. And Vel can't form ruinous soap-scum to cause that "cottony" look in fine fabrics.

You can feel this slippery, slimy scum in soap suds. But these amazing new Vel suds feel soft and pure.

That's because Vel is not a soap. It's a special new hard-water suds perfected by Colgate. It makes as much as 5 times more suds than expensive soap flakes in hardest water. And it makes hardest water act soft as rainwater.

Moreover Vel makes abundant

Assessed Value of Menasha Property Declines $30,000

Board of Review Approves Assessment Figure of $13,473,640

Menasha — A decrease of over $30,000 in the assessed valuation of the city of Menasha for 1939 in comparison with 1938 was reported today, according to the assessment figures approved by the board of review. The 1938 assessed valuation of Menasha is $13,473,640 while in 1938 it was $13,504,400 and in 1937 it was $12,582,684.

An increase of over $230,000 in the value of residential land and improvements thereon is reported but that gain is offset by decreases in mercantile property, manufacturing property and personal property.

Residential land in the city is assessed at $1,789,850 and improvements at $4,879,090 for a total of $6,668,940. In 1938 the value of residential land and improvements was $6,493,215 while in 1937 it was only $5,950,155.

Mercantile land and improvements assessments are down over $100,000 from 1938 when the total was $1,325,255. The 1939 total is only $1,171,135 based on $254,050 for land and $917,085 for improvements.

Manufacturing values also are down about $40,000 from the peak of $4,344,625 in 1938. In 1939 manufacturing land is valued at $407,655 and improvements at $3,888,095 for a total of $4,295,750.

Tearing down of the old island paper mill, removal of some of the Woodmen Ware buildings and the Burslein warehouse and lowering the mercantile and manufacturing values this year. Agricultural land in the city is assessed at $6,350.

Total value of land in the city is $2,427,955 while the improvements are valued at $9,644,270. The 1938 real estate total is $12,112,275 while in 1938 it was $12,070,435 and in 1937 it was $11,580,980.

Personal property decreases offset the increase in real estate. The 1938 total for personal property is $1,361,365 while in 1938 it was $1,432,965 and in 1937 it was $1,322,834.

2-Classifications Gain
In personal property classifications only two show increases. The value of furniture and fixtures is up about $15,000 over 1938 to $15,662 while the value of boats, launches and steam boats is up $1,000 to $3,510.

Decreases are shown in the value of merchants' stock, manufacturers' stock and tools and patterns. Merchants' stock is down about $40,000 to $905,267. Merchants' stock is down $20,000 to $222,565 and the value of tools and patterns is $129,551, a decrease of about $5,000. Miscellaneous items are down about $20,000 to $47,740.

Based on the 1938 tax rate of $24 per $1000, the decrease in the assessed valuation of the city represents a decrease of about $1,000 to income to the city.

Reading Project for Children at Library Will Close Saturday

Menasha — The summer reading project at Elvira D. Smith library for the children of Menasha will close Saturday. In order to be eligible to attend the party planned for September all youngsters participating in the trip must complete their 10 book report by 8 o'clock Saturday night.

Seven more youngsters have completed their reading. The total of 100 out of the 250 who started the trip early in summer. The youngsters travel along tourist trails in various sections of the country by reading books about those particular sections.

For each book read and reported, a small car and trailer bearing the child's name is moved along the road marked on a large map of the United States.

Four youngsters have completed the Lincoln trail in the last week. They are Dolores Vanderhyden of St. Patrick's school; Joan Holmbeck and Frances Kronschnabel, St. Mary's school, and Kenneth Wheelock of Butte des Morts school.

Stanley Dombrowski has completed the pony express trail while two youths have finished the Lewis and Clark trail. They are Richard Zinke of Roosevelt school and Donald Dugan of Jefferson school.

HOBBYIST AND ROOMFUL OF PLANES

Menasha—A roomful of planes features the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Obermeier, 512 Ninth street, for their 14-year-old son, Harland, shown above, is a very serious hobbyist in building miniature flying planes, some of which may be seen in the above picture. Around the walls of the room are many pictures of planes and pilots and in the desk are materials for plane building together with paints and plane "dope" to give the finished articles a shiny polish. Harland who will be a freshman at St. Mary's High school this fall hopes someday to be a designer and pilot of real planes. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Menasha Youth Moors Twenty Miniature Planes in Bedroom

Menasha — Some 20 miniature planes hang from their moorings in the bedroom of Harland Obermeier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Obermeier, 512 Ninth street, giving testimony to a 3-year old hobby of the St. Mary's High school freshman.

"I dust them myself. I don't trust her," Harland declared, smiling at his mother who did not mind his remark for the planes are fragile replicas and to build them takes much time and more patience.

About three years ago Harland's uncle, Martin Williams, 512 Seventh street, gave him a plane, partially completed, to try his hand at building. Harland worked a week before it was complete but today he makes about three planes per week.

Of course, he has the materials and the directions in each kit that he buys but Harland designs special parts of the planes himself such as landing gear, wheel base and detachable bombs.

Win in Contests
Some of the planes have been entered in contests and won first and second place awards for Harland. He also has sold some of his planes to his friends to get money to buy more planes.

The plane he prizes most is a fighter plane with detachable bombs that drop as the plane is tipped. One of the bombs is equipped with caps and ball arrangement that causes an "explosion" when it lands on a paper plan of the "enemy's" ammunition plants.

Harland reads many books on planes, plane designing and is planning to take science courses in school because "wind currents and air conditions are important."

Someday, "unless I change my mind when I grow up," the young designer plans to be a pilot and perhaps a designer of real planes.

Motor Didn't Work
One of the planes brought Harland a prize of another plane worth about $1. With added equipment, which is worth about $7.50, he peddled cabbage to earn $5 to purchase a motor for the plane only to find it was unable to make the motor work. "I lost a lot of money," he pointed out.

Harland's mother is interested in her son's hobby too, even if he is afraid to allow her to handle his planes for fear she won't be careful. She has carved pilots for several of his flying machines.

At one time, Harland had about 150 planes. Several months ago he had about 47 suspended from wire in his room and his relatives found time for good-natured "ribbing" by telling him that soon he would have to crawl into his room to get to bed. When the young hobbyist has to give up his room for company, he gives it up without protest, for he is afraid to disinterested people will break a wing or knock a plane down and "they break easily."

Designs Zeppelin
There is a miniature zeppelin of red and silver among the planes too which Harland designed himself. He built an autogiro "that really worked" early this spring but blew it up with a firecracker July 4.

On the walls around the room that can't be mistaken for anyone's but Harland's are hundreds of pictures of planes and pilots. Among his favorites are the late Frank Hawkes and Wylie Post, and Jimmy Doolittle, and though he is an amateur, one Frank Steek of Menasha, to whom Harland likes to talk "all day long." Harland has been in the air twice, once in a trimotor and the other time in a Waco.

The fourteen year old Menasha boy is the personification of pride as he displays his planes and talks about them. He has every right to his pride for he does his work well.

One of Pair Pleads Guilty of Larceny
Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau - Oshkosh — Jack T. Lane, 25, Minus, Tex., changed his plea to guilty of grand larceny in the theft of $48 from the Keil-Werner Electric company, Neenah, July 27, when he was arraigned before Judge S. J. Luchinsinger in municipal court this morning.

A jury was drawn for the trial of his brother, William B. Lane, 28, Minus, Tex., who has pleaded not guilty of grand larceny. The pair was arrested by Neenah police after they allegedly rifled the cash drawer in the vault of the Keil-Werner company.

Shell Oil, Lakeview Play a 3-3 Deadlock
Neenah — Shell Oils and Lakeview battled to a 3-3 deadlock in a Young Men's Softball league game last evening at the Green. The game will be played off later.

The Oils will meet Freedom in a non-league game Friday evening at Freedom.

Neenah Officials Lose to Menasha In Softball Til

Zeininger Leads Squad to 16-4 Victory at Washington Park

Neenah—Menasha's city officials softball team mercifully walloped Neenah's city officials, 16 to 4, in a softball game last evening at Washington park diamond.

Zeininger, finger for the Menasha outfit, started. Besides allowing only four hits, he walked four men and struck out two, and he also accounted for two runs on three hits.

With the exception of the fourth inning, the Neenah aggregation was in the doldrums. Menasha took an early lead, scoring a run in the opening inning, then collected six more runs on four hits in the next frame. Two hits brought in a many more counters during the third innings for the Menasha officials.

During the first three innings, the Neenah players were held pretty tight; in fact, they got only one hit less; in the fourth frame, Menasha pounded out three hits to count a run, and in the second half of the inning, the Neenah officials bludgeoned out three safeties, one a home by Henry Kohfeldt, for three runs.

6-Run Spurge
The Menasha offense came back in the next inning to stage a 6-run spurge on five hits, and during the next two innings they failed to either hit or score. Neenah got a hit in the sixth inning but failed to bring home a run, but in the seventh they managed another safety at a runner.

Toopler and Heigl pitched for Neenah, the latter relieving Toopler in the fifth inning. Toopler struck out one batter and walked three, while Heigl walked one.

Ole Jorgensen and Kohfeldt singled at bat for Neenah, each getting a hit and a run. Norman Hoeper collected two hits.

Neenah Kiwanis Hear Address on Alaska Travels

Manitowoc Teacher Describes Chief Industries to Club

Neenah — H. J. Norman, Manitowoc High school physics instructor, gave a vivid description of Alaska and its three principal industries, gold, salmon and seals, at the noon meeting of the Neenah Kiwanis club Wednesday at the Valley Inn.

The instructor, who spends his summers traveling through Alaska, climaxed his talk by reading a poem, "The Spell of the Yukon," imitating an old sourdough he had heard once in a saloon at Fairbanks.

Salmon fishing and canning is Alaska's chief industry, Norman told the Kiwanians, and he pointed out that during 1936 the salmon pack sold for $44,000,000, six times the amount the United States paid Russia for Alaska.

He outlined the habits and peculiarities of the salmon and the various methods of catching, cleaning and canning them.

Seals Depleted
The United States this year possesses 1,857,000 seals, according to the traveler. When the United States purchased Alaska, there were about 3,000,000 seals there, but by 1911, less than one-twelfth of that number were left, Russian and Japanese sealers having killed the rest.

Norman described the beautiful scenery along the Richardson highway to Fairbanks and the 3,600 islands along Alaska's 27,000-mile coast line. He advised the Kiwanians to take this trip to Alaska during the summer, stating that the country is a virtual paradise.

The traveler outlined the work being done in the Manastuka valley colony and the gold fields of the Yukon river.

Menasha Students Enrol Next Week

Registration Will be Conducted Wednesday and Thursday

Menasha — Registration of Menasha high school students for the school year of 1939-1940 will be conducted Wednesday and Thursday of next week, according to the announcement today from the office of A. J. Armstrong, principal of Menasha High school.

Freshmen and sophomores will call for their program cards for the ensuing year next Wednesday. Juniors and seniors will call for their cards Thursday, Aug. 31.

The Menasha High school students, including those enrolled in the junior high school, prepared their program cards at the close of the school year last spring. Those freshmen enrolling from other schools who did not make out their programs for the coming year will do so next Wednesday.

All registration will take place in the activities room of Menasha High school. Hours for registration are from 8:30 to 11:30 in the morning and 1:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. All students have been requested to report at the high school on the proper day.

All students are required to pay $1 for book rental for the year. This fee will be payable when the student registers. Fees for gym suits, swimming suits and towels also will be payable on registration.

Type, Production Contest Planned

New Cattle Competition Will be Held at Winnebago Fair

Neenah — A type and production contest for cattle will be held at the Winnebago county fair this fall, it was reported today by R. C. Heffernan, county agricultural agent.

Heffernan reported that it is a new kind of contest and it will be the first time that it has been held at the county fair. Besides judging cattle for type, the contest includes consideration of production records. Many high producing cows can't be fitted for the purely type show, but they should be recognized because they are high producers, he explained.

Only Winnebago county dairymen will be eligible to show in this class. Entries should be made before Saturday.

Deadline for County Fair Entries Is Friday

Neenah — Entries in the junior farmer department for the Winnebago county fair at Oshkosh must be submitted by Friday, according to R. C. Heffernan, county agricultural agent. Entries should be filed at his office.

Schedule Model Plane Test Flights at Park

Menasha — Model airplane flight trials will be conducted for Menasha youths Saturday morning at Smith park, according to E. G. Miller, local recreational leader. The planes will be divided into classes according to wing spread and time in the air will be the basis of judging the results.

A number of youngsters have made airplanes in the woodworking classes conducted by Mr. Miller at the Memorial building. Airplanes made in those classes or constructed at home may be entered in the trials.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

'DODGE CITY' NOW AT ELITE

The roughest and toughest cattle town in the history of the western frontier is the setting for the vigorous tale of virile adventure told in "Dodge City," the Warner Bros. production in Technicolor, starring Errol Flynn, now showing at the Elite theatre.

Other members of what is undoubtedly the most notable cast ever assembled for a picture dealing with western pioneers include Olivia de Havilland, Ann Sheridan, Bruce Cabot, Frank McHugh, Alan Hale, John Littel, Henry Travers, Henry O'Neill, Victor Jory, William Lundigan and Guinn "Big Boy" Williams.

Neenah Swimming Season Is Shortest in History of Beach

Neenah — Although the large amount of algae in Lake Winnebago this summer reduced the swimming season to only 68 days, the shortest season in the history of the municipal bathing beach, there were 18,864 swimmers at the beach this summer, nearly 500 more than last year when there were 84 days of swimming, according to the annual report of Ole Jorgensen, chief life guard.

Jorgensen reported that the bath houses opened June 7 and closed Aug. 19, a 74-day season, but during five days of the season persons were prohibited from swimming because of the abundance of the algae. On several other days, the condition of the water was so bad that swimmers, on their own volition, stayed out of it.

The condition of Lake Winnebago has been at its worst this summer, but it will be the last year that Neenah will have to contend with this offensive condition as far as swimming is concerned. The new $150,000 swimming pool, bath-houses and recreational building, which are under construction directly south of the municipal beach, will be used next summer.

No Serious Accidents
Jorgensen reported that there were no serious accidents at the beach during the season. Twice during the season all swimmers got hives from the infected water and on several other days there were numerous cases of skin irritations.

The report showed that 110 minor or cases were given first aid treatment and 12 rescues were made by the life guards. The chief cause of accidents were the slippery condition of the pier and the low water after the middle of July. Because of the latter, many divers hit bottom or scraped on the stones coming out of a dive. Rescues were restricted to those cases in which persons, unable to swim, tumbled off the end of the pier into deep water.

The season attendance at the boys' bath house was 9,159 while the daily average was 134. The largest single day was 374. The total attendance at the girls' bath house was 5,437 or a daily average of 80 and a peak day of 240.

The total number of persons who dressed at home was 4,778 and the daily average was 63. The highest single day was 225.

July Heaviest
The municipal beach was most populated during July, when a total of 8,841 swimmers attended. There were 4,734 during June and 4,280 during August.

Statistics during June were: Boys' bath house 2,133, girls' bath house 1,483, and home dressers 1,118; July, boys' bath house 4,859, girls' bath house 2,787 and home dressers 2,203; August, boys' bath house 2,167, girls' bath house 1,167 and home dressers 655.

A comparison of attendances during the last three years shows that in 1937 there were 30,057 bathers during a 79-day season, while last year there were 18,309 bathers during an 84-day season. An average of 10,666 boys, 6,822 girls and 4,905 bathers who dressed at home used the beach during the last three years.

Neenah — Roosevelt Parent Teacher association will hold its first session Sept. 18, following a potluck supper, it was planned at a meeting of association committee chairman at the home of Mrs. Harry Johnson, Hewitt street, who is program chairman for the 1939-40 season. "Building Well-Balanced Lives" is the theme for the new term.

Members of the program committee are chairman of the nine other association committees. They are: Mrs. John O'Leary, hospitality; Mrs. John Marun, historian; Mrs. Peter Abraham, magazines; Mrs. W. A. Green, membership; Mrs. Fred Robinson, legislation; Miss Ruth Nielsen, publicity; Mrs. George Rubelsky, study group; Mrs. Walter Russell, child welfare and Mrs. W. R. Werner, publication.

Mrs. Robert Schultz is president of the PTA. Mrs. Harry Johnson, vice president; Miss Bernadine Retzlaff, secretary and Mrs. Irving Stulp, treasurer.

Lecture on China Will Be Given Sunday Night

Neenah — Dr. Charles Culver, brother of Dr. Harry Culver, Appleton, will be guest lecturer at a special service in First Methodist church at 7:30 Sunday evening according to the Rev. Henry Johnson, local pastor.

Dr. Charles Culver who has been correspondent for the Associated Press, employed in the American consular service and superintendent of Christian Herald Industrial missions in China, will discuss "China's Darker Hour." He will illustrate his lecture with two reels of motion pictures depicting war scenes in the Far East.

Expect New Record in Neenah High Enrolment

Neenah — With a freshman class expected to reach more than 215 students by the time school opens Tuesday, Sept. 5, the Neenah High school enrolment for this year is expected to exceed the record total of last year. Last year's enrolment amounted to 705 students, the largest in the history of the school.

Sophomores are registering today, Friday, Saturday morning and next Monday morning, while the juniors will register Monday afternoon, Tuesday and Wednesday and the seniors Thursday and Friday, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

Firemen Extinguish Blaze in Automobile

Neenah — The Menasha fire department was called at 10 o'clock Wednesday night to extinguish an automobile fire at the James Norton residence, 5084 Tayco street. The fire, which firemen said probably started from a spark caused by smoking, had a good start before it was noticed. The car was parked in the garage at the time. The upholstery and interior of the car were damaged by the fire.

Falcons to Meet Kimberly Squad

First Game in League Series to be Held Sunday Afternoon

Menasha — The Kimberly Papermakers and the Menasha Falcons will meet at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Menasha baseball park in the first of a series of games to determine the Fox Valley league championship. The second game will be played Wednesday night at Kimberly while the third game, if necessary, will be played at the home park of the team having the largest crowd in the previous games.

Plans for the play-off between the champions of the two halves were made Wednesday night at a meeting at the Falcons hall. Frank Warner, Appleton, president of the league; Al Whitney, business manager of the Kimberly team, and Artie Buzanowski, manager of the Falcons, attended the meeting to arrange the play-off series.

John Van Cuyk, left-handed star of the Kimberly team, will be barred from participating in the play-off games. During the regular season Van Cuyk hurled for Bondel in another league and his name was not included in the playing lists submitted to Fox Valley league officials. Kimberly used Van Cuyk in its final league game against Oshkosh and the youthful left-hander struck out 20 and allowed but a run in 12 innings. Kimberly won by a 1 to 0 score.

Barring of Van Cuyk will force the Papermakers to rely on Lefty Behr and Artie Hofkins to do the pitching. The Falcons will count on Syl Omachinski who has won six games during the second half.

LITTLE CHUTE—The playoff for the championship of the Fox River Valley league will start at Menasha next Sunday afternoon. The second game will be played under floodlights at the Kimberly park on Wednesday evening. Sunday's game will start at 2 o'clock while Wednesday's game will be called at 8 o'clock. Plans were perfected at a meeting of the Kimberly and Menasha managements at Falcon last evening with Frank Warner, league president.

Kimberly won the first half title with straight games, while Menasha won the second half with six straight. Menasha dropped its final game to Little Chute last Sunday.

The Falcons will have the lineup that beat Kimberly at Menasha recently. Manager Art Buzanofski is expected to start Syl Omar on the mound with Ben Peck receiving. Omar twirled the Falcons to the second half championship with six straight victories and is expected to give the Kimberly Papermakers something to worry about. Peck is a batter and will be remembered by valley fans who followed him at Kaukauna two years ago.

At first base, Manager Buzanofski or Kalakowski will be starting. Kalakowski also can play the outfield. At second base, Paulowski will start. He is a powerful hitter being dangerous with mates on the bases. Badger Nadin, a veteran of many seasons, will perform at shortstop. He was among the leading hitters for several seasons but has slipped a bit. He is a cagey fielder and has caught many a runner napping on second base. At third base, S. Paulowski will handle the hot grounders. Sheddleski will start in left field. Stutz in center, and Mitchell or Kalakowski in right.

Van Cuyk May Hurl
Manager Butch Thine and his Papermakers will have three twirlers to rely on with Johnny Van Cuyk as the starter although Art Hofkins may be on the mound. Lefty Behr also will be around if things get too hot for the starters. On the receiving end, one of the smartest men in the Valley league will perform, Sonny Wildenberg. He studies every batter and is a great aid to a pitcher. Sven Bowman needs no introduction to valley fans as he has performed at first base for the Papermakers for a number of seasons. At second base, Bill Peotter, a slugger will show. Buck LeMay may start at short although Tuffy Horn, one of the Papermakers' most dependable players, may get the nod.

Elmer Vander Heiden will hold down the red light sack. He has been playing heads up ball for a rookie and fans are well pleased with his performance. Van Dyke also may get the starting call at shortstop with Horn in left field, Ernie Wildenberg in center field and Kobs in right.

The umpires will be Helms behind the plate, Brockhaus at first and Reichel at third.

Milwaukee—Coach Paddy Driscoll of the Marquette university football team, believe it or not, was playing for stormy seas this week when he embarked with his family for an extended cruise on Lake Michigan. "If the going is rough," he laughed, "I'll help get me in shape for what's ahead in football this fall."

All-Star Coaches Consider Shifting Squad to 'Hideout'

C HICAGO—(AP)—The college football All Stars may shine on Soldier field next Wednesday night. Until then, however, they're considering hiding.

Coaches of the team which will oppose the New York Giants for champions Aug. 30 have been planning to move the squad to a north side country club to keep final training maneuvers a secret.

The mentors feared reports on intra squad games have been made to the Giants camp at Superior, Wis.

NEW CLAY TARGET CHAMPIONS

Percy O. Harbage (left), West Jefferson O., farmer, won the North American Clay target championship in the Grand American trapshoots at Vandalla, O., by breaking 200 targets in a row. Mrs. William Gilbert (right), 27, Madison, Wis., tavern operator, broke 98 out of 100 targets to win the women's clay target title.

Pair of 20-Game Hurlers Is Big Help in a Pennant Race

BY DILLION GRAHAM
Sports Editor, AP Feature Service
NEW YORK—(AP)—Does a team have to have a 20-game pitcher to win a pennant? The American league says yes. No, says the National league.

Baseball history shows that every American league flag-winner in the past 17 years has boasted one or more tossers who copped 20 games. Over on the senior circuit 11 of the 17 victors listed one of these select-circle flingers.

But while a big game - winner undoubtedly helps, he doesn't insure a pennant. For instance, there was the case for Cincinnati in 1932. The Reds had Luque with 27 victories, Donohue with 21 and Rixey with 20. Yet Cincinnati finished fourth and one-half games behind the Giants. The Giants didn't have a single pitcher over the 16-game figure.

Must Have Two
Most baseball experts feel that a team must have a pair of pitchers who between them can win around 40 games. That was the case with the Cubs last year. Bill Lee, with 22 triumphs, was Chicago's only pitcher over the 20-mark, but Clay Bryant was just shy of that figure with 19.

Cincinnati this year has the requisite number of extremely successful pitchers. Buckly Walters has already hit the 20-game circle and Paul Derringer is close behind. The Cardinals probably will not be able to add up 40 or even 35 victories from any two of their flingers. And the same goes for any of the other senior circuit clubs.

In the American league Red Ruffing seems a sure bet to win 20 for the fourth straight year. Young Atley Donald may also slip through to cop 20. The Boston Red Sox, winner of the Yankees' trail, apparently will not have a 20-game winner. Tommy Bridges and Bob Feller are probable 20-gamers but Detroit and Cleveland appear too far back to figure in the championship.

Here are the last 17 pennant-winners and their 20 - or - over pitchers:

Brewers Rack Up 16 Hits to Beat Indian Team, 6-4

Milwaukee Rallies to Push Over 4 Runs in Seventh Inning

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers, clubbing two Indianapolis hurlers for 16 hits, pounded out a 6 to 4 decision over the Indians last night to gain an even break in the four game series.

Milwaukee rallied for four runs in the seventh inning and then put down an Indian uprising after two runs were scored off Lefty Ed Carnett in the ninth.

Johnny Hill had four hits in five attempts.

The Score: 020 000 400-6 16 3
Indianapolis 000 002 002-4 6 2
Carnett and Hernandez, French, Balas (7) and Baker.

The Louisville Colonels, who are taking particular delight in nagging the leaders at every meeting, spoke up with eight runs in the eighth inning last night and then argued five more innings to squelch the aspiring Minneapolis Millers, 11 to 9.

The 13-inning setback dropped Minneapolis two games behind pace-setting Kansas City.

For Louisville, the game, boosted it four games to the good in its effort to hold fourth place and gain a Shaughnessy playoff berth.

Wightman Team To Oppose Britain

U. S. Women Tennis
Stars Out for Eighth Straight Victory

NEW YORK—(AP)—A United States Wightman cup team led by the mainstays of the women's tennis forces that have carried the American side to eight straight victories over Great Britain will try to make it nine in a row at Forest Hills tomorrow and Saturday.

Alice Marble, appearing in the competition for the fourth time, headed the squad of six players named yesterday by the United States Lawn Tennis association, and Mrs. George Wightman, team captain, likely will name her as the No. 1 singles player when the draw is made this afternoon.

18-Year-Old Girl From Coast May Be Tourney Star

Elizabeth Hicks, Long Beach, 'Giant Killer'
In Golf Meet

DARIEN, CONN.—(AP)—A couple of female sports columnists representing newspapers on opposite sides of the United States threatened to steal the headlines for themselves today as they met in a quarter-final round match in the national women's golf championship.

For Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J., who writes for the New York Times, advancing to the fourth round in this type of competition is old stuff. In fact, she was runner-up in 1936, losing to Pam Barton, British star who was eliminated yesterday.

But it's a major thrill for Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., who writes for the Press Telegram there. Betty is just about the sensation of the current classic.

Unknown and unheralded, the 18-year-old Pacific coast Miss yesterday eliminated Mrs. William Hockenjos, Jr., of West Orange, N. J., and then went on to assume the "giant-killer" role by upsetting Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, an outstanding foreign threat.

In addition to the Hicks-Orcutt feature, the pairings today sent Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta against Dorothy Trautman of San Francisco; Charlotte Gutting, Miss Barton's nemesis this year, against Laddie Irwin, her New Jersey neighbor, and southern champion Marion Wiley against Betty Jamison, the Texas tornado.

Giants Pay $30,000
For Center Fielder

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Giants yesterday paid a reported $30,000 for John Rucker, center fielder for Atlanta of the Southern association and a nephew of Nap Rucker, one-time ace southpaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Giants will send two players, to be named later.

Rucker has been batting .355.

New York Yankees Pound Chi. Sox in Doubleheader

C HICAGO—(AP)—The New York Yankees were in championship form yesterday as they took a double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 2 and 16 to 4.

Atley Donald pitched the opening victory, his thirteenth of the season, and allowed the Sox but three hits, while the Yankees were making seven off Edgar Smith and two off Bill Dietrich.

Charley Ruffing scored his nineteenth triumph of the season in the eighth inning. He allowed 10 hits as the Yankees pounded out 19 hits. The latter total included Joe DiMaggio's twentieth home run in the fifth inning and Joe Gordon's twenty-first in the seventh with the bases loaded. Thornton Lee was charged with the defeat.

TIGERS BEATEN
DETROIT—(AP)—Three Philadelphia batters found the range on Freddy Hutchinson, high priced Detroit rookie, here yesterday and the Athletics took a 7 to 6 decision in 11 innings to split the two game series.

Bob Johnson, Dick Siebert and Dario Lodigiani each nicked Hutchinson for a double and a home run, between them accounting for six of the Philadelphia runs. Johnson's homer was his twentieth.

Siebert's homer, a single and Lodigiani's double scored two runs for the A's in the eleventh Earl Averill's tenth circuit blow in the Tiger half left the home club still a run short of a tie.

Charlie Gehring hit two home runs, his eleventh and twelfth of the season, and Rube Yok got his thirteenth, to pace the Detroit attack. Henry Pippin scattered fourteen Tiger hits in going the full game for the A's, who nipped Hutchinson for nine safeties.

Myer Calls Jack Odle Greater Than O'Brien

TOPEKA, Kas.—(AP)—Move over, Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien, you will have to make room on the Texas Christian's hero bench for Jack Odle—and it's your old coach, Leo R. (Dutch) Myer, who says so.

Myer, who just has completed a three-day assignment as a coaching school instructor, says Odle is the state title holder.

"Sure I hated to lose Lil Davey, but Odle is a 185-pound ball of fire, who'll make everybody forget about O'Brien and Baugh," he said.

Noffke Slated to Oppose Kloiber as A's, Cabs Meet

THE Appleton Athletics will play the Oshkosh Cabs tonight at West Spencer street field. The game is scheduled to start at 8:30. The game should be a close pitching battle between "Big Bill" Noffke and Kloiber of Oshkosh. Kloiber is one of the leading pitchers of the Fox River Valley league. He recently lost a tough game to Kimberly 1 to 0 in twelve innings.

The lineup for the Athletics will show "Big Bill" Noffke pitching and Elmer Horn catching. The infield will be "Lefty" Fredericks on first, O. Kirk or E. Brueggeman on second, I. Grishaber short, and P. Grishaber at third. The outfield will have F. Kroiss in left, N. Horn in center, and N. Kirk in right field. Reserves are F. Brueggeman, G. Swamp, and R. Dietzen.

Oshkosh will have Kloiber on the mound and Muggerauer behind the plate. Some of the other players in the Oshkosh lineup are Mitchell, Alvin, Tyriver, Roth, Cully Zinke, and Erdlitz. They finished the season well up in the win column in the Fox River Valley League.

Packers, Pirates Tangle Friday Night as Pro Grid Teams Get First Workout

GREEN BAY, Wis.—King Football will make his 1939 debut here Friday night when Coach E. L. Lambeau's Green Bay Packers meet Johnny Blood's Pittsburgh Pirates in the first gridiron doubleheader ever staged by National league squads.

The bargain-day attraction which will be played under the lights at the City stadium is scheduled to get under way promptly at 7:30 p. m. Two complete games with 10-minute quarters will provide the fans with plenty of football the first time out.

Friday night's game marks the start of the 21st year of professional football by the Packers under the direction of Coach Lambeau. This season's squad has all the earmarks of being able to continue Green Bay's winning ways on the chalk-marked gridiron.

The Pittsburgh twinbill is the toughest kind of an assignment, however, as the Pirates are just as eager to get off on the right foot as Lambeau's aggregation, and the going promises to be plenty tough all through both engagements.

There will be many new faces in action as the opposing coaches are going to get a lot of action out of their recruits in order to see how the "1939 freshmen" perform under fire. These gridirers will be out to "cut the buck" in their initial assignments.

Indications point to a large crowd but there are still any number of choice reservations available besides the general admission seats which include a goodly portion of the huge stadium. Gates to the park will be open at 6:30 p. m.

Greyhound Trots To New Record on Milwaukee Track

Gray Gelding Turns in 1:58 Race, but Misses World Mark

MILWAUKEE.—Greyhound, the world champion trotter, clipped 14 seconds off the all-time track mark at State Fair park yesterday but failed in an exhibition run to lower his 1:53 1/2 world record mile.

With the veteran Sep. Palin up, the gray gelding turned in a 1:58 performance before a crowd of about 13,000. The previous track trot mark of 1:59 1/2 was held by Una Signal, formerly owned by Gerling Brothers, Milwaukee.

Feiler Astor, 1939 Hambletonian winner, originally was entered in the free-for-all trot on the grand circuit program but his trainer and driver, Dr. H. M. Marshall of Urbana, O., put him through a mile exhibition trot instead. The bay colt turned the mile in 2:02, one-quarter second off his own record.

The free-for-all trot developed into a battle between Rosalind, the world champion trotting mare from the Lexington, Ky., stables of Gibson B. White, and Boyne, the Dunbar Bostwick gelding trained by Harry Whitney of Goshen, N. Y.

Rosalind Wins

Ben White brought Rosalind home first in the second and third heats after finishing second behind Boyne, with Houston Stone up, in the opening heat. Times were 2:00 1/2; 2:04.

Carl Recor drove Her Ladyship, world champion pacing mare, to a new track competitive record with a 1:59 1/2 performance in the second and final heat of the free-for-all pace. Her Ladyship won the first in 2:01 1/2. Rain and a wet track forced cancellation of the final heat.

Spental, a bay gelding from the Midwest stables, Duquoin, Ill., came home first with Doc Parshall driving in all three heats of the 2:14 trot to win the Governor Heil trophy. Times were 2:03 1/2; 2:03 1/2; and 2:04 1/2.

Minnehaha, a bay mare owned by the Thro brothers of Mankato, Minn., won the 2:14 pace in 1-2-1 heats.

In the same event Clyde Scott, a black gelding owned by Clyde G. Woodley of Madison, Wis., finished 4-4-3 with Shaw up. Times were 2:04 1/2; 2:03 1/2; 2:05.

Girls Cancel Game With New Holstein But Will Play Sunday

Kaukauna.—The game scheduled between the Fox Valley Girl All-Stars and New Holstein Sunday afternoon has been cancelled. Manager Les Arndt announced this morning. Arndt is contacting teams from Plymouth, Peshigo, Oconto, Waupaca and Green Bay and says one of the five will be here Sunday in place of the New Holstein team. The girls will play a double-header, meeting the CYO squad of the city league and one of the above teams.

Maddy Horn, noted Beaver Dam athlete, notified Arndt yesterday she will not be able to play Sunday. Either Mabel Richards, Gina Van Dyke or a Little Chute pitcher will be on the mound for the girls.

Home games scheduled for the All-Stars, according to Arndt, are New Holstein Sept. 3; Wakefield, Mich., Sept. 4; Appleton, Sept. 7; Watertown, Sept. 10; and Green Bay, Sept. 17.

Two World's Fairs Attract Vacationers From Kaukauna

Kaukauna.—With many Kaukauna people already having made trips east or west to the world's fairs, the two expositions are still attracting vacationers. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. All Stars to Play Crack Negro Team

Milwaukee Ghosts Will Perform on Kaukauna Diamond Sept. 6

Kaukauna.—With the close of the regular season this week Kaukauna softball fans will end an exciting schedule Sept. 6 when the Milwaukee Ghosts, crack negro team, come here to play against an all-star lineup. The Ghosts have won 55 games and lost 18 this year, and recently turned in wins over the Appleton Coated Papers and the Y. M. C. A. "Cannon Ball" Sims, author of more than one no-hitter, pitches for the invaders.

The all-stars have been selected from the best players in the city league. Expected to play are Junior Schumann, Bob Promer, Gene Peranteau and Paul Koch of the CYO; Pebs Kappell, Ves Kappell, Jay Balgie, Carl Schuler and Mark Rohan of Kappell Taverns.

Johnny Niesz, Sherman Powers, Bill Peterson, Art Koehne and Wilfred Van Abel of the Kaukauna Klubs; Jack Burton and Ralph Johnson of the Goldin Metals and Don Steger of the Kaukauna Machines.

Powers, Steger and Carl Giordana will handle the pitching duties, with Niesz and Pebs Kappell dividing the catching. The game will be played under the lights at the ball park.

Matthew Burns, president of the brotherhood, said he was unable to come, and was sending Addy, who he described as "stepped in the basic philosophy of the trade union movement" with a "broad concept of its functions and purposes."

Coach Little to Build Around Experienced Backfield, Linemen

Kaukauna.—When Coach Paul E. Little looks his squad of football candidates over at the first practice Monday morning nine returning lettermen will be on hand. With these veterans as a nucleus Little will begin the task of fashioning an eleven to defend the 1938 Northeastern conference championship, which came here last season after a schedule that saw all conference opponents go down before the Kaws.

Experienced players are divided proportionately between the backfield and the line. Last year the backfield returned almost intact and Little had to find line replacements. This season men to build around are on hand in both departments.

Two juniors, Bill Alger and Leo Rohan, are likely first choices for the end positions. Alger started in that spot in the first game of the season when he was a freshman, while last season was Rohan's first. Captain Leo Wolfe will again hold down center. After subbing for Carl Pendergast in 1937 Wolfe came into his own last year, outplaying all of his opponents.

Line Candidates

Leading line candidates, all lettermen, will be John Velte, John Wandell and Steve Andrejicki. Wandell alternated at end and tackle last year before appendicitis put him out for the season, and this year probably will concentrate on the latter position. Velte and Andrejicki are short stocky players who seem fitted for the guard stations.

The backfield will be formed around Karl Giordana, halfback without a conference equal as a ground gainer. He also passes and punts. Bob Danner, sophomore fullback, and Willis Ranquette, sophomore halfback, are certain to be in the fight for other backfield positions.

In addition likely prospects have come up from last year's freshman squad and from the St. Mary and Holy Cross teams. Two practice sessions daily until school begins have been decreed by Little. The first game finds the team traveling to Menasha to meet St. Mary's, an eleven Kaukauna trimmed last fall.

County 40 and 8 Gets 2nd Prize in Parade

Kaukauna.—The Outagamie 40 et 8 vulture of American Legion has been notified it will receive an award of $15 for placing second in the state convention parade at Oshkosh a week ago Saturday. The Kaukauna engine and box car pulled, on a trailer, the old bell which formerly hung in the old city hall. Most of the officers of the Outagamie vulture are from Kaukauna, with Lester J. Brenzel chef de gare. The engine is kept here.

Contract Is Awarded For Boiler at School

Kaukauna.—The final step in preparing Outagamie Rural Normal school for the opening of the fall term has been taken with the awarding of a contract to install a boiler to the Reinhard Wenzel company, for $990. Renovation and repair work inside the school is almost finished.

Visitors From Colorado are Dinner Guests at Kaukauna

Kaukauna.—Dinner guests Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. McAndrews, Grignon street, were Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Clapp of Greeley, Colo. Mr. Clapp is coach of Colorado State college in that city, and is now visiting friends at Appleton.

Friends and relatives surprised Mrs. Arthur Koss at her home last night on her birthday anniversary. Sheephead was played, with prizes going to Mrs. Anna Miller and Jack Sperberg. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sperberg of De Pere and Mr. and Mrs. William Hartjes of Chilton. A lunch was served. Mrs. Koss received many gifts.

High school Band Mothers gathered at LaFollette park yesterday afternoon for a covered dish picnic and cards. Plans were made to have a lunch stand at the Labor day picnic Sept. 3 and 4, with Mrs. Joseph Winn chairman of the stand committee.

Holy Cross CYO concluded its summer program last night with a party to Sherwood. Thirty were in the group, with Robert Nielsen, Ray Heindel and Miss Jean Kramer in charge. A chicken dinner was enjoyed at Sherwood. On Sept. 13 the organization will elect officers and select a team for a 1-act play.

Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Alvin Ploetz and Mrs. Jessie Pardoe received prizes at cards as Royal Neighbors of America met last night at Martens hall. The group will hold other card party, for members only, Sept. 6.

Girls Cancel Game With New Holstein But Will Play Sunday

Kaukauna.—The game scheduled between the Fox Valley Girl All-Stars and New Holstein Sunday afternoon has been cancelled. Manager Les Arndt announced this morning. Arndt is contacting teams from Plymouth, Peshigo, Oconto, Waupaca and Green Bay and says one of the five will be here Sunday in place of the New Holstein team. The girls will play a double-header, meeting the CYO squad of the city league and one of the above teams.

Maddy Horn, noted Beaver Dam athlete, notified Arndt yesterday she will not be able to play Sunday. Either Mabel Richards, Gina Van Dyke or a Little Chute pitcher will be on the mound for the girls.

Home games scheduled for the All-Stars, according to Arndt, are New Holstein Sept. 3; Wakefield, Mich., Sept. 4; Appleton, Sept. 7; Watertown, Sept. 10; and Green Bay, Sept. 17.

W.C.T.U. Renames Present Officers

Election Held at August Meeting: Mrs. H. B. Dodge President

Clintonville—All officers of the W.C.T.U. were reelected at the August meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Schurri on S. Clinton avenue. They are: Mrs. H. B. Dodge, president; Mrs. E. W. Marks, vice-president; Mrs. Earl Smith, secretary; and Mrs. M. F. Lendred, treasurer. The lesson topic, presented by Mrs. Stieg, was based on an article, "The Way of the Bad Boy" by Judge Braude of the Chicago Juvenile court.

Mrs. Kenneth Spearbraker was home Tuesday evening from a week's stay at "Hillcrest" on the Chain O' Lakes, Waupaca, summer home of her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Pfeiffer of New London.

Mrs. Kenneth Spearbraker was honored at a party given by relatives Tuesday afternoon at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Harry Plumb, on route 1. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. William Below, Mrs. George Below, and Mrs. Raymond Below. Two tables of bridge were in play, with honors going to Mrs. Albert Meilke and Miss Gladys Spearbraker. There were two tables of bistro, at which the prizes were won by Mrs. Arthur Wisniewski and Mrs. Leo Suchholz. The games were followed by the serving of a luncheon by the hostesses.

Past noble grands of the Rebekah lodge will meet for a picnic supper Monday evening, Aug. 23, at Central park.

Miss Mela Zachow returned home Tuesday from Chicago, where she attended the second annual convention of Affiliated Extension teachers of the Sherwood School of Music. Miss Zachow also stopped in Milwaukee to visit one of her former teachers, Mrs. Georgia Hall Quick, now head of the piano department of the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music.

Robert Samz, who has spent the last several months here with his mother, Mrs. Frank Helwig, will leave Thursday for West Point, N. Y., where he will resume his studies at the United States Military Academy on Monday, Aug. 28. Captain Samz will enter his junior year at the school. He expects to return to Clintonville for a visit during the holiday season, when he will have a 10-day furlough.

Clintonville Woman Moves to Bear Creek

Bear Creek—Phil McKenna and Simon Briscoe of Queens, Mich., spent Saturday afternoon in the village. On their return trip Mrs. Briscoe accompanied them and spent the weekend at Queens and Iron Mountain, Mich.

Mrs. Effie Von Heuklum of Clintonville has moved to this village and will make her home with Miss Estelle Meidam.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reinert, Bear Creek, and William Draves, Tegon, left Wednesday morning for Alameda, S. D., to visit at the William J. Japhansen home. Mrs. Japhansen is a sister of Mr. Reinert.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gough were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hafner and daughters, Margaret Ann and Norene of Ashland, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cummings, William Hafner and daughter, Jane of Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Raeske and daughter, Judith Ann of Hawkins and Jimmie Gough of Chicago.

Extension Course Sure for Waupaca

Group Assured U. W. Classes Will be Conducted in City

Waupaca—Superintendent Lester M. Emans, John Burnham and Hugh Johnson spent Monday in Madison where they conferred with Dean Holt of the University of Wisconsin Extension division and his assistant, Chester Allen, regarding the continuation of the freshman center in Waupaca. Although but 19 of the required 20 have signified intention of joining the center, Dean Holt assured the group that it would start Sept. 18. A complete schedule of the classes will be announced at a later date.

At a special meeting of the city council last Friday, it was agreed to sponsor the center to the amount of $200 for the year, $100 to be paid each semester.

For three years this center has been in operation in the city—one of the smallest places in Wisconsin to sponsor it. Thirteen credits per semester are offered at a cost of $5 per credit or $65 per semester.

Mr. Burnham attended the conference Monday as a member of the board of education while Mr. Johnson represented the parents who are interested in the project.

CONSOLIDATED BADGER COOPERATIVE

Laziness and Poor Health are Often One and the Same Thing

Madison—"A lazy child is often a sick child," the State Medical Society advises in a health bulletin today.

Laziness usually is regarded as a disgrace, the bulletin states. It implies that the guilty person is sluggish, indolent and indifferent and also that in some way he could, if he would, be equal to his problems and face facts. The lazy man or woman in a community seldom receives any sympathy, nor is any serious effort made to explain his condition. The same attitudes were once reflected in the school, but today in the up-to-date school an attempt is made to explain indolence in the light of modern hygiene and psychology.

The lazy child is often a sick child. Those who have made a scientific study of childhood have found that many children who appear lazy are actually suffering from some physical disability which in turn causes lack of energy. Of course, when a child does not have a reserve supply of energy left after his physiologic needs, he cannot be expected to be vivacious and energetic.

"Scientists have found that the body generates every day about 3,400 foot pounds of energy through the food we digest and the air we breathe," the bulletin continues. "Of this 3,400 pounds are used each day in maintaining the heat of the body, and only 500 pounds, or roughly one sixth of the total, is left for carrying on mental and muscular processes. Our capacity for activity, play and work is therefore limited. Of course, we may conserve much of our margin by sleep and rest, but even then the supply may be lacking. This may be due to a poorly balanced diet and too little food.

"Traits of laziness in children may be caused by diseased adenoids and tonsils, frequent colds and anemias. With such physical handicaps, the body's machine refuses to function as it should, and it is necessary, therefore, that health habits and physical defects be investigated at once. The child whose health habits are good and whose diet is well balanced is not lazy, but on the contrary, enjoys life and usually brings home a satisfactory report card from school."

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Abnormal psychology covers at least five broad fields. These are: Ascentia, Dementia, Psychosis, Neurosis and Psychopathic Personality. Don't be frightened by these strange terms, for they are easily understood. Paste this Case Record in your scrapbook for your dictionary do not contain these later definitions as I give them today.

Case O-128: Cynthia B., aged 18, is a brilliant student.

"I read an article the other day which said that genius and insanity are very closely related," she began anxiously.

"The author said that people with very high intelligence were likely to lose their minds."

"Dr. Crane, is there any relationship between I. Q. (intelligence quotient) and insanity?"

Diagnosis: The intelligence quotient of I. Q., as it is often designated, refers to the mental horsepower of an individual. But a person with a genius rating in mental tests may drift through life without utilizing his superior horsepower.

The I. Q., therefore, indicates what can be done, even as a high powered automobile can make 100 miles per hour though it might never be driven beyond 20 miles an hour. Many intelligent people are business and social failures, therefore, because they do not utilize their native ability or don't steer their attention along the right highway.

Insanity is an abnormal mental state in which the patient becomes confused regarding time, place and person. He may have hallucinations and delusions of persecution, plus emotional apathy.

Who Can Be Insane? Insanity has no apparent relationship to one's intelligence. A brilliant scientist can become inane, but so can a feeble-minded individual.

After 20 years in an institution for the insane, a person may recover and be as intelligent as before. Some types of insanity are characterized by destruction of the brain tissue, as in the case of paresis or syphilitic infection of the brain.

In other types of insanity, however, there may be no sign of any injury to the brain. Dementia praecox has now been renamed schizophrenia because we find that the brain does not deteriorate as was formerly believed, so it is not correct to use the term "dementia."

People who are born with a low mental horsepower and from birth onward are feeble-minded, illustrate "amnesia."

"Dementia" is usually employed to describe a reduction in mental horsepower after birth, as by disease or injury, arteriosclerosis, etc. A demented individual is not necessarily insane. And an insane person may not be demented.

A feeble-minded person may in adulthood have the mentality of a 10-year-old child. A brilliant scientist may become demented until he also has the mentality of the 10-year-old child.

Abnormal Psychology Furthermore, that same feeble-minded person with 10-year mentality might contract syphilis, and develop paresis. At a later date we might find his intelligence reduced to that of a 5-year-old child. Thus this original "amnesia" individual might also be classified under the "dementia" heading.

A "psychosis" refers to an insane condition, and is our third heading under the subject of abnormal psychology. A "neurosis" refers to an emotional conflict which may be converted into worry or hysterical paralysis. Millions of normal people are neurotic. The usual person who fears insanity is neurotic, but not in danger of becoming insane or psychotic.

Finally, we have the psychopathic personalities, who are devoid of moral perspective. They'll double cross their own mothers or cheat their own children. They are not insane, but morally abnormal.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions of Psychological diagnosis. Write him, in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for return of answers. Letters and readers' names are never published.

When Woman Fails as Wife,
Man Is Sometimes to Blame

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why is it that so many married women are such poor sports—such out-and-out gold-diggers—such lazy lumps? Early half of those in my neighborhood are just spoiled brats. One of them quite casually nags a good husband into nervous prostration. Another has a system all worked out to make her husband do most of her housework while she enjoys a headache, but she is always set to play bridge in the afternoon. Still another goads her husband on to earn more money so she can drive the family car to a distant city to spend a month or so with her family three or four times a year while he waits for the car and eats canned beans at home. Hardly a wife in my whole acquaintance really earns her salt. All of them are immeasurably better off than they would be working in an office. Do women marry just to get easy meal tickets?

A HUSBAND.

DOROTHY DIX

No doubt a lot of them do. No one can deny that there are plenty of lazy trifling husbands as nothing more than slaves to work and support them and get not even a "thank you" for their labor.

English Par
Contest Hand
Is Reviewed

My sympathies go out to all those unfortunate who are called upon to manufacture hands containing abstruse points for "par contests" such as the World Bridge Olympic. (I have had my own sad experience in this connection.) They carefully build up a situation to give the opportunity for brilliant play, and along comes some dumb who takes a couple of wild guesses and gets the same result! Today's hand taken from a recent English par contest is a case in point:

The bidding recommended by the English committee was as follows:

South West North East

1 spade Pass 3 clubs 3 hearts

4 spades Pass 4 no trump Pass

5 spades Pass 6 no trump Pass

Pass Pass

Placing the final contract in no trump, with North declarer, instead of at spades, is no more than a "match point" consideration in this deal.

North, holding the heart king, must see the great advantage of having his hand led up to instead of through, and indeed, it will be observed that twelve tricks are not possible at any suit bid.

Against six no trump, East properly conserves his tenace position in hearts, and opens a diamond. Correct play is as follows: North wins with the ace and the clubs should be tested by laying down one honor. When East shows out it is obvious that West has a stopper.

Now declarer tries out the spade suit, but two rounds disclose that West started with five of these also. The situation now is clear. West originally had ten black cards, hence could have had only three red ones. Two more rounds of diamonds are cashed to extract West's exit cards, then declarer goes back to clubs, cashing his remaining top tricks in that suit. That done, he throws West on lead with a fifth club, thereby compelling a spade return which will give dummy the rest of the tricks.

The hand is a neat enough example of card playing and "elimination," but to the profound shock of the English committee a couple of contestants found a ridiculously easy (although totally unsound) method of attaining the desired result. These inspired gentlemen won the first diamond trick with the ace and led two more rounds. West discarding a heart 'At this point, they arbitrarily decided that West had started with five cards in spades and clubs, so they cooly led club four to the South hand and passed it! Their "judgment" was unimpeachable. West had no choice to return and had to lead a black card which gave them the rest of the tricks.

This sensational play might well be called double par-double dummy play!

as bad ones. The great majority of married women do not welch on their end of the matrimonial partnership. They work and scrimp and save to help their husbands get a start in the world. When misfortune comes they take it without whining or complaining and do not hesitate to put their shoulders to the wheel to try to drag the family car out of the ditch into which it has fallen.

Among the unsung heroes of the depression have been those women who have gone out and got jobs when their husbands couldn't. They not only supported their families, but also did the cooking and washing besides, and poured whatever energy and strength they had left into keeping their dependent men bucked up and hoping for a better day.

I am sorry for any man who is unlucky enough to draw a wife who is a slacker in the matrimonial lottery. But I haven't quite as many tears to shed over him as I have over the woman who has a no-account husband. For if a man has determination and energy enough he can do a lot of turning a woman to whom he is married into the kind of wife he wants, whereas there is very little a wife can do in correcting her husband's faults.

In the first place, the husband has the whip hand because he handles the money. If a husband had the backbone to stand up and tell his wife to leave her job and keep her house and keep her husband on their jobs as wives it is because they think they can't be fired, as they would be in a store or office. Believe me, many a lady who now lies on the sofa and reads novels half the day and spends the balance of it at the movies or the beauty parlor would get busy if she knew she would be sent back home to Mother if she didn't pull her weight in the boat.

Any man who lets an able-bodied wife sleep in the morning while he gets up and gets his own breakfast, or who stands for being fed out of paper bags and tin cans has only himself to blame. It is because he doesn't demand good service of his wife and see that he gets it.

Nor need any man let his wife run him with her extravagance or nag him with her overbearing or henpeck him until he is afraid to call his soul his own unless he is too weak and cowardly just to stand up and fight her and assert his independence. After all women are just human beings, and it is human to grab the best for ourselves if we can get it and tyrannize over others if they will let us.

But it is also human to know when we are licked and to recognize authority and to respect those who make us behave ourselves. And this goes double for marriage. Women love strength above all other qualities in a man, and they have a contempt for the one they would dominate. I have heard more than once a woman brag that she was a good wife because she had made her husband live within his income and keep a clean house and a good table, and that he had refused to let her beg, cajole or weep him into doing things against his better judgment.

Virtually every girl who marries loves her husband and wants to make him a good wife. When she fails to do so he is just as much to blame as she is. As a bride he can develop her into what he wants her to be or he can spoil her so that she becomes nothing but a lazy parasite. If men would take as much time and trouble to teach their wives how to be efficient wives as they do to teach a new stenographer how to be a good secretary, husbands wouldn't have so much to complain about.

Men Should Use
Heads as Well as Hearts

Dear Miss Dix—I am an attractive girl and very domestic. I can sew, cook, wash and iron, and do everything about a house. Everybody says I would make an ideal wife, but I have never had a proposal, while girls all about me who don't know the first thing about housekeeping marry every day and run their husbands into debt with their wastefulness and poison them with their bad cooking. Why is this? Don't men want comfortable homes any more?

Answer:

Of course they do, but the trouble is that men think that a knowledge of how to cook and run a budget comes by nature and that every girl born knowing how to make pies like Mother makes. If men picked their wives out with their heads instead of their fancies they wouldn't be so many disgruntled husbands and divorcees.

Don't Tie Yourself Down
What's Your Reason?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a boy of 17, crazy for voyages and adventures, and I am going to join the navy. However, my girl friend does not approve of this and says if I do

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Old and young should learn how to care for their teeth intelligently, as good teeth are not only a cherished beauty asset of both sexes, but they insure better health as long as we live.

Gradually food scientists are telling us which foods to eat in order to build strong teeth, and this alone is a great help to mothers with growing children and to adults who have been suffering from decaying teeth.

Many of our adult tooth ailments might have been avoided had we in infancy been fed calcium, phosphorus and vitamins A, C and D in our daily menus. But alas few cooks and fewer mothers ever heard of vitamins in those days and they had the idea that calcium and phosphorus were to be purchased from the chemist by the ounce!

Today we are taught that all of these vital building food elements are found in certain sun ripened vegetables and fruits and in whole milks. So mothers of today may intelligently feed their children so they will grow strong healthy teeth which will give them far less trouble during their lives than those of a generation past.

All these foods are listed in my leaflet called "Foods for Teeth Building" which is available without cost providing you send a self-addressed envelope bearing a three-cent stamp to cover mailing charge. It furnishes you with a wide selection of fruits and vegetables for your menu.

Care Of Teeth

Later summer is an excellent time to visit a reliable dentist for an examination of your teeth. Do not wait until you have an ache or a pain, because frequently a very tiny filling in time will save a tooth for years. Whereas if the same tooth is left to rot without care until you have sharp pain, you may be forced to lose it, long before you should.

All larger cities have dental clinics which charge the minimum of fees to those who cannot afford the regular fees of dentists, and many schools provide free tooth examinations.

Wise mothers give their children raw, scrubbed carrots. These build strong teeth. Toss to children twice a year.

Tooth Grooming

You cannot have tooth beauty unless you groom your mouth daily. Perhaps the two most important preservatives are dental floss and an antiseptic mouth wash. We all use a tooth powder or paste for cleansing, but few of us think to use dental floss regularly. A prominent dentist told me that it is more important to keep the spaces between the teeth free of food stuffs than it is to polish the enamel of the teeth by brushing!

The best daily routine is this: In the morning, before eating, rinse your mouth thoroughly with a prepared mouth wash, or with table salt dissolved in water. Brush your teeth with it also. Next take your dental floss and run it between your teeth. Rinse your mouth a second time with the mouth wash, and finally give your teeth a good brushing!

The same routine should be gone through with at night. If you do not eat after the nightly routine you need not use the dental floss in the morning.

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

YESTERDAY: So Doug may take advantage of an offer which will enable him to continue at Medical School, Cecily pretends she is eager to go with Aunt Olivia. She rents the Cape Cod cottage and her New York apartment.

Chapter Four
Goodbys

CECILY dashed off her hands and, leaning wearily on the shelf that was level with her elbows, studied the other girl while her brow furrowed. "Hilda, are you sure you mean it? I mean, wouldn't you rather I sent this stuff to storage? It doesn't seem right that you should put all your furniture away. I think you're doing this as a gesture of friendship to take this place off my hands."

"Don't be ridiculous!" Hilda answered casually. "I'm delighted to live in new surroundings. I had to move anyway, and it isn't costing me anything to store my stuff in Ned's warehouse. He has lots of room. Suppose you go and get tidied up and we'll have something to eat?"

She had heard the footsteps she had been waiting for in the area way that led to the apartment. A moment later there was a great to do as enthusiastic hands pounded on the door. Hilda might have been completely deaf for all the attention she gave to the thunder.

Cecily opened the door and was greeted with shouts and song.

"Well!" she said, and pretended to grumble when she saw her friends with their arms filled with bulky packages as they pushed through the door, filling the small room. "What's the meaning of this?"

"A party, darling!" Jean Tuthill, who was a young and very important assistant to the society editor of a New York newspaper, explained, and then they were all talking at once.

"I brought my camera along," Ted Pryor said. Until a few weeks before Ted had been near the edge of starvation, as most of them in that group, with the exception of Cecily, had been during their two-year friendship.

"And I," explained Paul Gortio, who had been born Paul Jones and dropped the Jones part—illustrious as the combination had been—when he embraced a singer's career, "wore my beret to lend a Bohemian atmosphere."

"Did you bring your guitar?" Cecily asked. "That's so much more important!"

Paul didn't need his beret to lend the right atmosphere. It began when Lucius Fennelly's bride proudly produced a huge kettle of hot spaghetti and Lucius brought forth the makings of a gargantuan green salad. Someone else had brought a rare old cheese and Hilda dove under a lounge to drag out a case of beer.

"It's the first surprise party I've ever had," Cecily said later and remembered that it was the first party that Doug hadn't shared. Doug, had saved with the Kendalls the night before and the next day when I come back she will be gone. What shall I do? GEORGE.

Join the navy and by the time you come back you won't care whether your girl is gone or not. You will have seen so many wonderful sights and so many other pretty girls that you will wonder what you saw in her. Seventeen is too young to tie yourself down to one girl and let a woman commence bossing you.

She was to leave by motor for Vicksburg. "It's practically my debut."

Her voice wasn't as gay as she intended it should be. Hastily, Patricia Fennelly said, "Don't talk of debuts, Cecily. We're afraid that you'll desert us now that you're going in for high life!"

"High life?" Cecily asked, laughing. "Of course it will be. Lucius says he bets you'll be having breakfast in bed every morning and caviar for dinner every night. Oh, we read our newspapers, we do, and we know how Madame Darrell lives! You'll be yachting and . . ."

"Oh, please let's not talk about it," Cecily said before she realized what she was saying, or how much of her reluctance and unhappiness was in her voice.

Furious and Frustrated

After the supper had been cleared away and the lamps turned off until there was only a dim, golden light in the room, they sang to the accompaniment of Paul's guitar, as they had done so many happy times before.

Cecily could not sing. Her throat was tight. In the pleasant dimness, through the veils of smoke, over and over again her eyes traveled slowly about the room which she had made into a home. A home that she was leaving and did not know that she could ever have again.

It had seemed so modest when she wrote the checks to pay for its maintenance. Now it seemed, since there were no more checks, to be the height of elegance and comfort.

She tried to think of the autumn and her return. But for her, Time had stopped still. There was only the summer and, after that, she could not foresee the future. She only knew that Doug must go on to medical college and that somehow she must find a way to earn her own living.

When she thought of her own inadequateness, she felt furious and frustrated. She was young, ambitious and intelligent. She could drive a car, handle a boat in any dirty weather, cook reasonably well, paint a little, discuss history, politics, modern art and literary movements, strum a guitar, play bridge, swim and knit. But to save the life of her, she couldn't find among those pleasant accomplishments one single thing that could be translated into a means of earning her living.

Paul sang a Neapolitan love song. It reminded her of a girl she had met in Venice two years before. The girl had been a debutante and when the family fortune was lost in the depression, the girl had studied stenography and become a private secretary to a novelist who was traveling in Europe.

Cecily thought about that. It would be interesting to be a private secretary. But you had to have money to pay for a course at business college and you had to have money to live on until you got a job. She could, of course, continue to live in Olivia's big brownstone house in the East Seventies. But she had no money to pay for tuition and in the last two weeks since she had been living at her aunt's, Olivia, for all that she knew Cecily's financial status, had not offered to lend her any money or give her an allowance. Olivia, seeing her niece's fine clothes, had undoubtedly assumed that Cecily still had some money. Cecily would have died rather than mention that she had nothing. She did have sixty dollars. This

Good Taste Today

EX-DAUGHTER-IN-LAW Dear Mrs. Post: My son has been recently divorced, after a very amiable arrangement with his wife. I love this daughter-in-law and am heart sick that she and my son could not make the best of their incompatibility. However, I intend to see her just the same when she has time for me, and wondered, should the occasion arise to introduce her to strangers, what I should call her now?

Answer: By the name she now goes by. If your son's name is Henry Jones and she was a Miss Brown before she married, she should be called Mrs. Brown Jones.

What To Say To Bride and Groom Dear Mrs. Post: Is it wrong to offer congratulations to the wedding couple at their wedding reception? I mean, is it wrong, after the wedding has taken place, to congratulate the bride? I know it is supposed to be tactless to congratulate her on her engagement.

Answer: Wish them both every happiness.

A Wedding Present Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: I want to give a set of liquor glasses and decanters for a wedding present. The groom is our friend, and we are strangers to the bride. Please tell us to whom the glasses should be sent, and how they should be engraved. Since these glasses are primarily for him, we thought perhaps it would be of place to mark them with his initials. And yet we don't want our present to seem to overlook her completely.

Answer: If he has a crest, this would be a suitable time to use it. Otherwise, if you think the single initial of his last name not effective enough and you want to include her, mark them in a triangle, his last initial at top, his first one at lower left, and her first one at lower right.

To Seal or Not to Seal and When? Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it rude to "entrust" a note for some one else in a sealed envelope? It has always been my understanding that when one gave a note for some one to deliver, the envelope should be left unsealed.

Answer: You are right. And the person to whom the envelope is given should at once seal it in your presence. Not to do this is so remiss that it would seem permissible, should its contents be valuable, for one to ask for it back and seal it for safety. On the other hand, you should of course never give any one a letter that you would not be willing to have the bearer read.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many good slips on a variety of subjects to offer to readers. Today's slip is "Introduction." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

2 FROM 1 PATTERN

BY ANNE ADAMS

Here comes a real, little style leader! Anne Adams' versatile Pattern 4245 will make several school and party costumes for a lucky girl. First, buy some splashy, peasant print cotton or spun rayon fabric for the darling jumper, with its low-cut, laced neckline and frilled, slanted pockets. Use fresh white cotton for the blouse, with either ruffled, puffed sleeves and crisp frills at its neck, or a neat collar and long sleeves. Now with the same pattern, sew a dainty one-piece dress with a button-trimmed jacket in vivid contrast. The jacket's low neckline will show the big, floppy bow on the dress. So dashing for school or romping!

Pattern 4245 is available in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6 jumper, takes 14 yards 35 inch fabric, blouse, 1 yard 35 inch contrast; entire ensemble, 2 yards 35 inch fabric and 1 yard contrast. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number.

Weeds, forest leaves, potato top, corn stalks and other plant refuse may be called in layers and a sprinkling of calcium cyanamide added to each layer to hasten decay. The compost pile should be swept down occasionally.

To protect the surrounding wall when cleaning electric light switch plates, cut a hole the size of the plate in a piece of cardboard or heavy paper and lay it on the wall so that just the plate is exposed.

Inch squares of peeled apples placed on wooden picks are tasty, crisp additions for the appetizer tray.

Gener attempted to hide was nothing more than the time at which Madonna lilies should be planted, together with the depth of planting. Madonna lilies should be planted in midseason rather than later in the fall and the bulbs should be set so that there is never more than two or three inches of soil on top of their crowns. WANNA HANG THE WEATHER-MAN 'CAUSE HE DO NOT LIKE THE WEATHER?

YES

THE WEATHER-MAN THINKS UP ALL KINDS OF WEATHER AND RUNS OUR VEG-TABLES

SOME WEEKS IT IS TOO DRY AND OUR RAD-DISHES WILT

OTHER WEEKS IT IS TOO WET AND OUR TOMMY-TOES FALL OFF THE TOMMY-TOE VINES

SAY IF WE LET YOUR FRIEND GO FREE WILL YOU BRING US THE WEATHER-MAN?

I WILL SEE IF I CAN

IS THAT A PROMISE?

FOX GROWS WHITE WINTER COAT

The Arctic fox is a widely known animal of the north frigid zone. It goes through color changes each year. In the summer its coat is brown or gray above, with white hair on lower parts of its body. In winter the brown or gray hair turns to white.

The changes fit with the seasons. In the summer the animal hunts its food in meadows, where it can find field mice. In winter, when there is snow and ice all about, its white coat matches with Nature.

There are times when Arctic foxes cannot obtain enough "game," and at such times they grow bold enough to go near places where people are living. Eskimos complain of these foxes coming to their homes to steal food they have saved for the winter.

An Arctic explorer was awakened one day when he felt an animal gnawing at one of his sealskin boots. It was an Arctic fox! The same explorer reported that another Arctic fox ran into camp one day and tried to pull meat right out of his hands.

Such stories give us an idea of the fight for food north of the Arctic Circle. It is a fight more fierce than what goes on in parts of the earth where Nature gives a better supply.

Musk-oxen graze on the moss, grass and other plant life in the Arctic lands. Their bodies are covered with long, thick, dark brown hair, and their heads are armed with horns.

The chief animal enemy of the musk-ox is the Arctic wolf. If a pack of wolves can corner a musk-ox, the big animal is doomed. For this reason, musk-oxen usually travel about in herds, and the wolves do not dare attack them.

The king of Arctic animals, at least of those which spend much time out of water, is the polar bear. It has white or cream-colored fur, and the color does not change with the seasons.

Polar bears seldom attack other animals. Their food is made up mainly of fish and seals. They live about freely on ice floating in the sea, and are such expert swimmers that they can travel long distances through the water, from floating ice to the land.

Lamp of Learning to Shine More Brightly

Buenos Aires — With an appropriation of approximately $37,500,000 for 1940, Argentina next year will spend more for public education than all the other nine South American nations combined. Argentina plans to reduce the national index of illiteracy from the present 16 per cent nearer to the 0.6 per cent of Buenos Aires, the capital. The population of Argentina is about 13,500,000; that of Buenos Aires, about 2,200,000.
